

jokes, riddles, and sports news. Language must be used according to kind of news. News have some important features as written in past tense, reported speech, adverbials to link paragraphs, formal tone etc. There are many interesting ways to share information. Let's discuss some important features of language of the news papers.

Short Words

Headlines often use very short words to make an impact. These are sometimes violent words e.g. Thugs battle. A thug is a violent person and a battle is a fight (it is a noun and a verb). This headline could also read Some thugs have been fighting, however this does not have the same impact as the short headline above.

Omitted Words

Headlines often don't include verbs and articles, for example, More MP resignations over expenses row. If we put this into spoken English then the sentence would read More MPs have resigned over the row about expenses. This means that Members of Parliament have left their jobs because of the disagreements over what they should be able to claim on expenses.

Another example would be New flood alert. This means that there have been warnings that there could be more flooding.

Word Play

A lot of newspaper headlines is word play. Words

Language Of Newspapers:

The Language of Newspapers Martin Conboy, 2010-02-18 This book charts the connections between the language of journalism in England and its social impact on audiences and social and political debates from the first emergence of periodical publications in the seventeenth century to the present day It extends work done on the language of the media to include an historical perspective adding to wider contemporary debates about the social impact of the media It draws upon the field of historical pragmatics while retaining a concentration on the development of a particular form of media language the newspaper and its role in refracting and contributing to social developments Dialogue is created between sociolinguistics and journalism studies It is ideally suited to advanced students in these areas and in linguistics and media studies in general

Spanish-Language Newspapers in New Mexico, 1834-1958 A. Gabriel Meléndez, 2005-01-01 For more than a century Mexican American journalists used their presses to voice socio historical concerns and to represent themselves as a determinant group of communities in Nuevo M xico a particularly resilient corner of the Chicano homeland This book draws on exhaustive archival research to review the history of newspapers in these communities from the arrival of the first press in the region to publication of the last edition of Santa Fe s El Nuevo Mexicano Gabriel Mel ndez details the education and formation of a generation of Spanish language journalists who were instrumental in creating a culture of print in nativo communities He then offers in depth cultural and literary analyses of the texts produced by los periodiqueros establishing them thematically as precursors of the Chicano literary and political movements of the 1960s and 70s Moving beyond a simple effort to reinscribe Nuevomexicanos into history Mel ndez views these newspapers as cultural productions and the work of the editors as an organized movement against cultural erasure amid the massive influx of easterners to the Southwest Readers will find a wealth of information in this book But more important they will come away with the sense that the survival of Nuevomexicanos as a culturally and politically viable group is owed to the labor of this brilliant generation of newspapermen who also were statesmen scholars and creative writers      Aspects of Newspaper Language - newspaper coverage with focus on the example of the Harold Shipman case Denise Sajdl, 2007-04-17 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 2.0 Ruhr University of Bochum Englisch Seminar course Legal Language language English abstract Media are the dominating presenters of language in our society News language has a mass audience it s the few talking to the many and thus has enormous power and influence in the world This term paper will analyse some important works of linguistic theory concerning the language in the news especially focussing on the print language of newspapers Chapter 2 wants to give a brief introduction into the field that means it gives some definitions extracted from different sources to the general meaning of newspaper language The theoretical background knowledge like e g explicit linguistic tools that are characteristic and exclusively found in newspaper language are being presented in the following chapters Here I will try to demonstrate in how far the role of linguistic structure is extremely important in the construction of language in the news The explained analytic devices will be better illustrated by examples taken from select British newspapers all dealing with the Harold Shipman case one of the most spectacular event in British media Harold Shipman a British general practitioner was the most prolific known serial killer in the history of Britain who killed around 250 patients from the 1970s to 1998 mainly elderly women who lived alone and were otherwise in good health He was eventually caught after he ineptly forged a new will in the name of one of his victims Shipman was convicted on 15 sample charges in 2000 and sentenced to life imprisonment Dr Death the media gave him this nickname committed suicide in 2004 without admitting to or explaining his crimes The style of the Sun newspaper is very different from that of the Guardian and the readerships of the two papers are very distinct in socioeconomical terms Therefore the reports by four different British newspapers concerning this topic are being examined and compared namely the Guardian the Daily Telegraph the Daily Mirror and The Sun After all this paper wants to prove that news is a representation of a construction of social and economic values and not a value free reflection of facts It is written to look at the way the news texts present and to a certain extent create or at least influence aspects of our in this case the British culture and society development studies will find this book of particular interest      Indigenous African Language Media Phillip Mpofu, Israel Ayinla Fadipe, Thulani Tshabangu, 2023-04-26 The book contributes to the sparse academic literature on African and minority language media research It serves as a compendium of experiences activities and case studies on the use of native language media Chapters in this book make theoretical methodical and empirical contributions about indigenous African language media that are affected by structural factors of politics technology culture and economy and how they are creatively produced and appropriated by their audiences across African cultures and contexts This book explores indigenous African language media about media representations media texts and contents practice based activities audience reception and participation television popular culture and cinema peace and conflict resolution health and environmental crisis communication citizen journalism ethnic and identity formation beat analysis and investigative journalism and corporate communication There are hardly any similar works that focus on the various issues relating to this body of knowledge The book provides a valuable companion for scholars in various fields like communication media studies African studies African languages popular culture journalism health and environmental communication      Utility Corporations United States. Federal Trade Commission, 1934      Indigenous Language Media, Language Politics and Democracy in Africa Abiodun Salawu, Monica Chibita, 2016-02-02 This book deals with the often neglected link between indigenous languages media and democracy in Africa It recognizes that the media plays an amplifying role that is vital to modern day expression public participation and democracy but that without the agency to harness media potential many Africans will be excluded from public discourse      The English-language Press Networks of East Asia, 1918-1945 Peter O'Connor, 2010-09-01 This study is the first to assess the combined significance of the English language newspapers of China Japan and Korea in the period 1918-45 It not only frames the English language press networks in the international media history of East Asia but also relates them to media developments in the British world linking Fleet Street to the Empire and Dominions and to the rise of the United States as a broker of international opinion on and in the Asia Pacific The English language newspapers occupied a narrow but significant segment of the public sphere in East Asia in the inter war years As forums of opinion on Japanese Chinese and Western interests in East Asia they also served as vehicles of propaganda particularly during the crisis ridden 1930s and the Pacific War With this examination of the media affiliations editorial line and access to official bodies in East Asia and the West of most of the English language newspapers published in East Asia in the period under review the author demonstrates that these publications formed distinct networks in terms of the editorial positions they took vis a vis the key issues of the day especially Japan's imperial project in East Asia      African Language Digital Media and Communication Abiodun Salawu, 2018-10-03 While some academic attention has been paid to the impact of new digital technologies on African media in the colonial languages of English French and Portuguese there is a dearth of research into African language digital communication This book analyses the online presence of African language media The chapters in the book focus on the speed structure content navigation and interactivity operations and performance and audience of the online media They also pay particular attention to how social media such as Facebook Twitter and WhatsApp have been appropriated by African language media Using a wide range of case studies the contributors assess the challenges of adopting digital technologies by the media and how the technologies have impacted journalistic practice and media operations Examining the ability of the African language press to adopt new technologies this book will be of interest to scholars of media journalism communication social media and culture in Africa

Chinese Indonesians in Post-Suharto Indonesia Wu-Ling Chong,2018-10-02 Selfish obscenely rich insular and opportunistic these remain how Chinese minorities in Indonesia are perceived by the indigenous population However far from being passive victims of discrimination and marginalisation Chong presents a forceful case in which Chinese Indonesians possess the agency to shape their future in the country particularly in the changing political business and socio cultural environment after the fall of Suharto While a lack of good governance that promotes the rule of law and accountability allows or even encourages some Chinese to maintain the status quo by perpetuating corrupt business practices inherited from Suharto s New Order regime there are other Chinese Indonesians who make full use of the democratic space opened up under the new administrations acting as agents of reform by participating in electoral politics and establishing inter ethnic socio cultural organisations Building on Anthony Giddens s structure agency theory and Pierre Bourdieu s notions of habitus and field Chong shows that the Chinese minorities have played an active role in the democratic process even though they continue to occupy an ambivalent position in Indonesia The Chinese Indonesians diverse strategies to safeguard their personal interests and cultural identities make a stimulating case study of what an ethnic minority could do to make a difference Backed by formidable research Chong has produced an intriguing and original view of the political social and economic activity of the still precariously placed Chinese minority in Indonesia Donald L Horowitz Duke University author of Constitutional Change and Democracy in Indonesia In this illuminating study Chong traces the political economy of Indonesia s ethnic Chinese minority as they navigate the country s post 1998 politics which is more free but still lacks strong rule of law Focusing especially on Medan and Surabaya she analyses how some have strongly supported reforms while many continue old practices of surviving and profiting by participating in massive corruption and extortion Jeffrey A Winters Northwestern University author of Oligarchy
