National, Regional and Minority Languages in Europe Gerhard Stickel, 2011 The European linguistic diversity goes far beyond the official national languages of the present 27 member states of the European Union In every country several languages of smaller or larger groups of speakers are used besides the official language or the languages of the majority population These languages are autochthonous languages that have been used for a long time in the individual country as well as allochthonous languages of different groups of migrants and their descendants The sometimes complicated relations between national regional and minority languages within various countries are discussed in this volume Besides reports on several countries the general sociolinguistic and legal conditions are dealt with in overview contributions In addition the Dublin Declaration on the relationship between official languages and regional and minority languages in Europe is presented in 24 languages

Globalisation and African Languages Katrin Bromber, Birgit Smieja, 2011-07-20 Globalisation and African Languages links African language studies to the concept of globalisation which increasingly undergoes critical review Hence African linguists of various provenience can make valuable contributions to this debate In cultural matters which by definition include language there is often a sense that globalisation leads to a major trend of homogenisation which results in a reduction of diversity on the one hand and on the other in new themes being incorporated into global cultural patterns However often conflicting and overlapping particularistic interests exist which have a constructive as well as destructive potential This aspect leads directly to the first of three sections of this volume LANGUAGE USE AND ATTITUDES which addresses some of the burning issues in sociolinguistic research Since this research area is tightly linked to the educational domain these important issues are addressed in articles that comprise the second section of this volume LANGUAGE POLICY AND EDUCATION The third section of the volume presents articles dealing with LANGUAGE DESCRIPTION AND CLASSIFICATION demonstrating which parts of different language systems are affected through contact under historical and modern conditions The contributions of all the well known scholars in this volume show that globalisation is a two way street and to ensure that all sides benefit in a reciprocal manner means the impacts have to be monitored globally regionally nationally and locally By disseminating and emphasising these linguistic findings as part of the global cultural heritage African language studies may offer urgently needed new perspectives towards a rapidly changing world English Language and Literature Modupe Moyosore Alimi,Mompoloki Mmangaka
