Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1977     Computer Hardware Description Languages and their Applications D. Agnew, L. Claesen, R. Camposano, 2014-05-21 Hardware description languages HDLs have established themselves as one of the principal means of designing electronic systems. The interest in and usage of HDLs continues to spread rapidly driven by the increasing complexity of systems. The growth of HDL driven synthesis, the research on formal design methods and many other related advances. This research oriented publication aims to make a strong contribution to further developments in the field. The following topics are explored in depth: BDD based system design and analysis; system level formal verification; formal reasoning on hardware languages for protocol specification; VHDL; HDL based design methods; high level synthesis and text graphical HDLs. There are short papers covering advanced design capture and recent work in high level synthesis and formal verification. In addition several invited presentations on key issues discuss and summarize recent advances in real time system design; automatic verification of sequential circuits and languages for protocol specification.

Models of Communication Mats Bergman, Kestas Kirtiklis, Johan Siebers, 2019-10-16 Models of Communication offers a timely reassessment of the significance of modelling in media and communication studies. From a rich variety of different perspectives the collected essays explore the past, present and future uses of communication models in ordinary discourses concerning communication as well as in academic research. This book challenges received views of communication models and opens up new paths of inquiry for communication research. By zooming in on the manifestations and purposes of modelling in ordinary discourses on communication as well as in theoretical expositions the essays collected in this volume cast new light on the problems and prospects of models crafted for the benefit of communication inquiry. Complementing earlier studies of models of communication the volume digs deep into fundamental epistemological and ontological questions concerning modelling in the communication disciplines but it also presents several novel models that promise to be of practical use in empirical studies of media and communication. The book is intended for communication scholars and students of media and will also be of interest for related disciplines in the humanities and the social sciences.

Spatial Cognition Christian Freksa, Christopher Habel, Karl F. Wender, 2003-05-20

Research on spatial cognition is a rapidly evolving interdisciplinary enterprise for the study of spatial representations and cognitive spatial processes be they real or abstract human or machine Spatial cognition brings together a variety of search methodologies empirical investigations on human and animal orientation and navigation studies of communicating spatial knowledge using language and graphical or other pictorial means the development of formal models for representing and processing spatial knowledge and computer implementations to solve spatial problems to simulate human or animal orientation and navigation behavior or to reproduce spatial communication patterns These approaches can interact in interesting and useful ways Results from empirical studies call for formal explanations both of the underlying memory structures and of the processes operating upon them we can develop and implement operational computer models obeying the relationships between objects and events described by the formal models we can empirically test the computer models under a variety of conditions and we can compare the results to the results from the human or animal experiments A disagreement between these results can provide useful indications towards the refinement of the models
