Excavations At Little Waltham 197071:

Excavations at Little Waltham, 1970-71 P. J. Drury, 1978      Lives in Land - Mucking excavations Christopher Evans, Grahame Appleby, Sam Lucy, 2015-12-31 The excavations led by Margaret and Tom Jones on the Thames gravel terraces at Mucking Essex undertaken between 1965 and 1978 are legendary The largest area excavation ever undertaken in the British Isles involving around 5000 participants recorded around 44 000 archaeological features dating from the Beaker to Anglo Saxon periods and recovered something in the region of 1 7 million finds of Mesolithic to post medieval date While various publications have emerged over the intervening years the death of both directors insufficient funding many organizational complications and the sheer volume of material evidence have severely delayed full publication of this extraordinary palimpsest landscape Lives in Land is the first of two major volumes which bring together all the evidence from Mucking presenting both the detail of many important structures and assemblages and a comprehensive synthesis of landscape development through the ages settlement histories changing land use death and burial industry and craft activities The long time gap since completion of the excavations has allowed the authors the unprecedented opportunity to stand back from the density of site data and place the vast sum of Mucking evidence in the wider context of the archaeology of southern England throughout the major periods of occupation and activity Lives in Land begins with a thorough evaluation of the methods philosophy and archival status of the Mucking project against the organizational and funding background of its time and discusses its fascinating and complex history through a period of fundamental change in archaeological practice legislation finance research priorities and theoretical paradigms in British Archaeology Subsequent chapters deal with the prehistoric landscape each focusing on the major themes that emerge by major period from analysis and synthesis of the data The authors draw on archival material including site notebooks and personal accounts from key participants to provide a detailed but lively account of this iconic landscape investigation      Rethinking Roundhouses D. W. Harding, 2023 Of all structural or material remains from later British prehistory roundhouses are probably the most archetypal with a great range of regional variants in terms of ground plans and structural materials used This study rethinks the archaeology of roundhouses based on the latest development led research excavation      Prehistoric Settlement Patterns Around the Southern North Sea , 1982      Romano-British Settlement and Cemeteries at Mucking Sam Lucy, Christopher Evans, 2016-11-30 Excavations at Mucking Essex between 1965 and 1978 revealed extensive evidence for a multiphase rural Romano British settlement perhaps an estate center and five associated cemetery areas 170 burials with different burial areas reserved for different groups within the settlement The settlement demonstrated clear continuity from the preceding Iron Age occupation with unbroken sequences of artefacts and enclosures through the first century AD followed by rapid and extensive remodeling which included the laying out a Central Enclosure and an organized water supply with wells accompanied by the start of large scale pottery production After the mid second century AD the Central Enclosure was largely abandoned and settlement shifted its focus more to the Southern Enclosure system with a gradual decline though the 3rd and 4th centuries although continued burial pottery and artefactual deposition indicate that a form of settlement continued possibly with some low level pottery production Some of the latest Roman pottery was strongly associated with the earliest Anglo Saxon style pottery suggesting the existence of a terminal Roman settlement phase that essentially involved an Anglo Saxon community Given recent revisions of the chronology for the early Anglo Saxon period this casts an intriguing light on the transition with radical implications for understandings of this period Each of the cemetery areas was in use for a considerable length of time Taken as a whole Mucking was very much a component place complex it was its respective parts that fostered its many cemeteries whose diverse rites reflect the variability and roles of the settlement s evidently varied inhabitants

A Rural Society After the Black Death Lawrence Raymond Poos, L. R. Poos, 2004-01-29 A Rural Society after the Black Death is a study of rural social structure in the English county of Essex between 1350 and 1500 It seeks to understand how in the population collapse after the Black Death 1348 1349 a particular economic environment affected ordinary people s lives in the areas of migration marriage and employment and also contributed to patterns of religious nonconformity agrarian riots and unrest and even rural housing The period under scrutiny is often seen as a transitional era between medieval and early modern England but in the light of recent advances in English historical demography this study suggests that there was more continuity than change in some critically important aspects of social structure in the region in question Among the most important contributions of the book are its use of an unprecedentedly wide range of original manuscript records estate and manorial records taxation and criminal court records royal tenurial records and the records of church courts wills etc and its application of current quantitative and comparative demographic methods

Colchester, Fortress of the War God David Radford,Adrian Gascoyne,2013-07-19 This volume is a critical assessment of the current state of archaeological knowledge of the settlement originally called Camulodunon and now known as Colchester The town has been the subject of antiquarian interest since the late 16th century and the first modern archaeological excavations occurred in 1845 close to Colchester Castle the town's most prominent historic site The earliest significant human occupation recorded from Colchester dates to the late Neolithic but it was only towards the end of the 1st century BC that an oppidum was established in the area This was superseded initially by a Roman legionary fortress and then the colonia of Camulodunum on a hilltop bounded on the north and east by the river Colne There is little evidence for continuing occupation here in the early post Roman period but in 917 the town was re-established as a burgh and gradually grew in importance After the Norman Conquest a castle was built on the foundations of the ruined Roman Temple of Claudius and a priory and an abbey were established just to the south of the walled town Although the town as elsewhere was affected by the Dissolution of the Monasteries and the English Civil War it remained essentially medieval in character until the 18th century During the 19th century this process of change was accelerated by the arrival of the railway industrialisation and the establishment of the military garrison Since the 1960s Colchester has been subject to recurring phases of re-development the most recent having ended only in 2007 which have had a significant impact on the historic environment Fortunately the town is one of the best studied in the country

Analecta Praehistorica Leidensia XV Corrie Bakels,M.E.Th. de Grooth,L.P. Louwe Kooijmans,2023-11-13 Journal of Roman Pottery Studies Steven Willis,2021-07-07 The Journal of Roman Pottery Studies continues to present a range of important new research in the field by both established and early career scholars Volume XVIII has a strong theme on pottery production with papers on kiln sites mortaria and late Roman pottery production in East Anglia and at a small town in Belgium A major new third century assemblage from civitas Cananefatium in South Holland is presented The second part of an important gazetteer of less common samian ware fabrics and types in northern and western Britain covers fabrics from Central and East Gaul Ancient Britain Mr James Dyer,James Dyer,2002-11 This book is for anyone starting out to understand the prehistoric life of Britain from the first human occupation 450 000 years ago until the Roman conquest in AD 43 James Dyer here succeeds in bringing to life a thriving picture of the people and customs of the Stone Bronze and Iron Ages based on the sometimes sparse clues presented by prehistoric archaeological sites across Britain For many readers Ancient Britain will provide the first chance to get to grips with the present state of our knowledge of prehistoric agriculture settlement trade and ritual The rise of power with the development of a class system at the hands of the first metal users is charted through to the growth of wealth and the emergence of a warlike and advanced Iron Age society a society that was nonetheless unable to withstand the might of Rome With over 130 illustrations and photographs including a number of specially drawn reconstructions this highly visual book is an ideal primer for all students of prehistory and all those who are simply interested in the subject Proceedings of the Prehistoric Society of East Anglia Prehistoric Society (London, England),2003 Beyond the Medieval Village Stephen Rippon,2008-11-27 The varied character of Britain s countryside and towns provides communities with a strong sense of local identity One of the most significant features of the southern British landscape is the way that its character differs from region to region with compact villages in the Midlands contrasting with the sprawling hamlets of East Anglia and isolated farmsteads of Devon Even more remarkable is the very English feel of the landscape in southern Pembrokeshire in the far south west of Wales Hoskins described the English landscape as the richest historical record we possess and in this book Stephen Rippon explores the origins of regional variations in landscape character arguing that while some landscapes date back to the centuries either side of the Norman Conquest other areas across southern Britain underwent a profound change around the 8th century AD British and Irish Archaeology ,1994
