Development S. Brown, 2016-06-10 This pioneering volume invites scholars from different social science disciplines to contribute their competing perspectives to a far ranging albeit understudied dimension of globalization Globalization has been defined as progressively integrated national product and factor markets cemented by the revolution in transportation and communications technology. This process has been driven by transnational corporations who have erected intricate global supply chains. Such commercial advances have in turn intensified the interdependence among states and the authors raise a number of questions: Can the multi variegated cross border activities in which such non state actors engage be analyzed through a single conceptual lens? Can non state transnational transfers be so clearly distinguished from exchanges in practice? What are the implications of transnational transfers where material and non material value is transferred abroad with no assurance or even expectation of reciprocal compensation for sovereignty? The case studies range from the impact of worker remittances on failed states to capacity building by global civil society on behalf of nascent NGOs in China to the transfer of security or insecurity via peacekeepers, track two diplomats and private security contractors.

Multinational Companies from Emerging Economies A. Goldstein, 2007-04-17 This comprehensive study of the rise of multinational corporations from emerging economies explores the basis of their success. Andrea Goldstein argues that the history of multinational business offers valuable lessons for the present and shows how emerging multinationals are embedded in dense political, social and ethnic networks.

Governing Financial Globalization Andrew Baker, David Hudson, Richard Woodward, 2005-02 This volume provides a wide ranging discussion of both the potential and the problems arising from the application of multi level governance literature to the monetary and financial domain.

Kpim of Environment Fr. Pantaleon Foundation, 2024-10-08 Kpim of Environment is a superb book crafted from assembled and peer reviewed articles focusing on the fundamental issues that build, sustain or degrade the environment. There is no doubt the modern world is seriously faced with diverse challenges, especially that of having a healthy environment. What is it that causes the environment to become a threat? The focus of this book is to interrogate what ought to be the core issues and expectations of making our environment, our world a better and safer place in the contemporary time or in the era of global heating. Established scholars have explored the various aspects of the complex environment in development and highlighted what the underlying issues are through integral reflection, intersectionality theory and practice, resilience and sustainability in the changing world. By working out the issues in their fields of specialization and interest, the authors very insightfully offered instances and strategies to manage the environment in ways that will allow faith, reason and action in discerning policy and outcomes of environmental intelligence and care. The unique voices of the authors are not only revealing but also irresistible to be ignored on the question of reason, faith and environment. You will discover how philosophical, theological and applied scientific knowledge crisscrossed the weaving of the essays together to strike a meaningful outcome. The book is organized in three sections with running chapters for each article, including a book review on cutting to the resilience and general conclusion. By scrutinizing the meaning of environment for adaptation and growth through technology, reason and faith, this book offers a glimpse and in depth analysis of what the competing issues are and will keep readers and systematic policy
