French Fiction into the Twenty-First Century Simon Kemp, 2010-07-01 The French novel's return to the story in the last decades of the twentieth century and the beginning of the twenty first is has been widely acknowledged in literary scholarship But is this assessment accurate With French Fiction in the Twenty First Century Simon Kemp looks at the work of five contemporary writers Annie Ernaux Pascal Quignard Marie Darrieussecq Jean Echenoz and Patrick Modiano in the context of the current French literary scene and examines how far they pursue the innovations of their predecessors and just how far they have turned their backs on the era of experiment

Exotic Subversions in Nineteenth-century French Fiction Jennifer Yee, 2017-07-05 In the course of the nineteenth century France built up a colonial empire second only to Britain's The literary tradition in which it dealt with its colonial Other is frequently understood in terms of Edward Said's description of Orientalism as both a Western projection and a will to govern over the Orient There is however a body of works that eludes such a simple categorisation offering glimpses of colonial resistance of a critique of imperialist hegemony or of a blurring of the boundaries between the Self and the Other Some of the ways in which the imperialist enterprise is subverted in the metropolitan literature of this period are examined in this volume through detailed case studies of key works by Chateaubriand Hugo Flaubert and Segalen

The Other Rise of the Novel in Eighteenth-Century French Fiction Olivier Delers, 2015-09-01 The rise of the novel paradigm and the underlying homology between the rise of a bourgeois middle class and the coming of age of a new literary genre continues to influence the way we analyze economic discourse in the eighteenth century French novel Characters are often seen as portraying bourgeois values even when historiographical evidence points to the virtual absence of a self conscious and coherent bourgeoisie in France in the early modern period Likewise the fact that the nobility was a dynamic and diverse group whose members had learned to think in individualistic and meritocratic terms as a result of courtly politics is often ignored The Other Rise of the Novel calls for a radical revision of how realism the language of self interest and commercial exchanges and idealized noble values interact in the early modern novel It focuses on two novels from the seventeenth century Furetiere's Roman bourgeois and Lafayette's Princesse de Clèves and four novels from the eighteenth century Prévost's Manon Lescaut Graffigny's Lettres d'une Pruvienne Rousseau's La Nouvelle Héloïse and Sade's Les infortunes de la vertu It argues that eighteenth century French fiction does not reflect material culture mimetically and that character action is best analyzed by focusing on the social and discursive exchanges staged by the text rather than by trying to create parallels between specific behavior and actual historical changes The novel produces its own reality by transforming characters and their stories into alternative social models different articulations of how individuals should define their economic relations to others The representation of interpersonal relations often highlights personal conceptions of private interest that cannot be easily reconciled with the traditional narrative of a transition towards economic modernity Realism then is not only about verisimilar storytelling and psychological depth it is an epistemological questioning about the type of access to reality that a particular genre can give its readers

The Colonial Experience in French Fiction Alec Hargreaves, 1981-06-18 Ethical Issues in Twentieth Century French Fiction C. Davis, 1999-12-08 This book examines ethical problems raised by a number of key twentieth century theoretical and fictional texts by authors such as Levinas Sartre Beauvoir Yourcenar Duras and Genet It argues that even texts which apparently espouse ethical positions based on respect for and responsibility towards others frequently depict conflict as an insurmountable aspect of human relations This is reflected at an aesthetic level as these texts both describe the struggle for supremacy and replicate it in their relation to their readers

Peoria Public Library List of English Fiction, French Fiction, and Juveniles Peoria Public Library (Peoria, Ill.), 1894 A catalog of juvenile and fiction books held by the Peoria Public Library in one alphabetical listing

French Fiction Honoré de Balzac, 1917

Fin de millénaire French Fiction Ruth Cruickshank, 2009-10-08 The turn of the millennium in France coincided with a number of tangible crises and apocalyptic discourses and with the growth of the mass media and global market further generating and manipulating crisis In this original wide ranging but closely analytical study Cruickshank contextualizes and reads the work of four influential writers of prose fiction Angot Echenoz Houellebecq and Redonnet teasing out each one's response to this convergence She suggests that the recurrent fictional and cultural trope of the turning point has both aesthetic and critical potential Bringing together analyses spanning literature thought and culture she identifies and critiques the ways in which on the eve of the twenty first century different theoretical and fictional approaches confront the manipulation of crisis discourses Drawing on a long twentieth century of crisis thinking Cruickshank counters the perception that a postmodern model of perpetual crisis is culturally dominant and establ
