Language Matters Timothy Reagan, 2009-04-01 This book addresses a timely and very important topic language in education Language apparently is a very tricky business On the one hand everyone uses language and virtually everyone has strong views about language In the educational domain this seems to be especially true Language is not merely an intrinsic component of the educational process as the medium of instruction in the classroom but also serves as the mediator of social reality for students and teachers alike It plays a central role in articulating and conveying not only social cultural and empirical ideas but ideological concepts as well It is also used to make judgments about the speaker not to mention its role in maintaining differential power relations And yet in spite of this the role of language is not sufficiently recognized in classroom practice much of the time Nor is language except in fairly narrow ways really an especially central part of the curriculum in spite of its incredible importance To be sure we do spend a great deal of time and money attempting to teach students to read and write that is to provide them with basic literacy skills and we provide nominal support for foreign language education programs We also provide limited support for children coming to school who do not speak English What we do not do though is to recognize the absolute centrality of language knowledge and language use for the educated person This book seeks to address these issues from the broad perspective of critical pedagogy

The Longitudinal Study of Advanced L2 Capacities Lourdes Ortega, Heidi Byrnes, 2009-05-07 Researchers and educators routinely call for longitudinal research on language learning and teaching The present volume explores the connection between longitudinal study and advanced language capacities two under researched areas and proposes an agenda for future research Five chapters probe theoretical and methodological reflections about the longitudinal study of advanced L2 capacities followed by eight chapters that report on empirical longitudinal investigations spanning descriptive quasi experimental qualitative and quantitative longitudinal methodologies In addition the co editors offer a detailed introduction to the volume and a coda chapter in which they explore what it would take to design systematic research programs for the longitudinal investigation of advanced L2 capacities The scholars in this volume collectively make the argument that second language acquisition research will be the richer theoretically and empirically if a trajectory toward advancedness is part of its conceptualization right from the beginning and in reverse that advancedness is a particularly interesting acquisitional level at which to probe contemporary theories associated with the longitudinal study of language development Acknowledging that advancedness is increasingly important in our multicultural societies and globalized world the central question explored in the present collection is How does learning over time evolve toward advanced capacities in a second language

Multilingual Memories Robert Blackwood, John Macalister, 2019-10-17 Drawing on a range of disciplines from within the humanities and social sciences Multilingual Memories addresses questions of remembering and forgetting from an explicitly multilingual perspective From a museum at Victoria Falls in Zambia to a Japanese American internment in Arkansas this book probes how the medium of the communication of memories affirms social orders across the globe Applying linguistic landscape approaches to a wide variety of monuments and memorials from around the world this book identifies how multilingualism and its absence contributes to the inevitable partiality of public memorials Using a number of different methods including multimodal discourse analysis code preferences interaction orders and indexicality the chapters explore how memorials have the potential to erase linguistic diversity as much as they can entextualize multilingualism With examples from Africa Asia Australasia Europe and North and South America this volume also examines the extent to which multilingual memories legitimize not only specific discourses but also individuals particular communities and ethno linguistic groups often to the detriment of others

Negotiation of Identities in Multilingual Contexts Aneta Pavlenko, Adrian Blackledge, 2004 This volume highlights the role of language ideologies in the process of negotiation of identities and shows that in different historical and social contexts different identities may be negotiable or non negotiable
