The Death and Resurrection of a Coherent Literature Curriculum Sandra

Stotsky,2012-06-16 This book is addressed to teachers who know that the secondary literature curriculum in our public schools is in shambles Unless experienced and well read English teachers can develop coherent and increasingly demanding literature curricula in their schools average high school students will remain at about the fifth or sixth grade reading level where they now are to judge from several independent sources This book seeks to challenge education policy makers test developers and educators who discourage the assignment of appropriately difficult works to high school students and make construction of a coherent literature curriculum impossible It first traces the history of the literature curriculum in our middle schools and high schools and shows how it has been diminished and distorted in the past half century It then offers examples of coherent literature curricula and spells out the cognitive principles upon which coherence is based Finally it suggests what English teachers in our public schools could do to develop a literature curriculum that gives all their students an adequate basis for participation in an English speaking civic culture CLASH! Sandra Vavra, Sharon L.

Spencer,2011-09-01 This book offers ideas that secondary teachers university content faculty and teacher educators can use to challenge traditional literacy practices and demonstrate creative innovative ways of incorporating new literacies into the classroom all within a strong theoretical framework Teachers are trying to catch up to the new challenges of the twenty first century It is a superheroic feat that must be achieved if education is to stay relevant and viable There is a lot of zip bam whap and wow in the fast paced social networking technological world but not so much in the often laboriously slow paced educational world Where is the balance How do teachers and students learn together since one group has seasoned wisdom with limited technological know how and the other uses all the cool new tools but not in the service of learning These are some important issues to consider in finding the balance in an unstable fast moving ever changing world This book is practical and useful to literacy teachers teacher educators and university faculty by bringing together the expertise of composition rhetoric researchers and writers literacy specialists technology specialists and teachers who are on the cutting edge of new literacies Closing the Gap Karen Keaton Jackson, Sandra Vavra, 2007-09-01 Without contraries there is no progression William Blake This is a book about reality and hope Its chapters reframe the concept of gap acknowledging distances for example acknowledging old insights and theory while also honoring teacher discovery However it refuses to bow under the weight of these challenges Its contributors focus instead on how to overcome acknowledged inadequacies in learning how to teach writing as well as how to practice principled literacy instruction These contributors see gaps not as unbridgeable chasms but rather as opportunities to educate their students to use writing to understand the broader context of their education and pre service candidates to adapt curriculum creatively Contributors include new and seasoned secondary school teachers graduate students and university faculty who together remind us of old insights needing to be passed along Villanueva and show us new practices that challenge the conventions of the status quo and promote social justice To close the gaps in short they demonstrate how rhetoric and truth are intertwined In a time when too many children continue to be left behind this book should be required reading for all literacy teachers because it is in our continued willingness to learn from each other that hope resides

Beyond Conversation William Duffy, 2021-01-04 Collaboration was an important area of study in writing for many years but interest faded as scholars began to assume that those working within writing studies already got it In Beyond Conversation William Duffy revives the topic and connects it to the growing interest in collaboration within digital and materialist rhetoric to demonstrate that not only do the theory pedagogy and practice of collaboration need more study but there is also much to be learned from the doing of collaboration While interrogating the institutional politics that circulate around debates about collaboration this book offers a concise history of collaborative writing theory while proposing a new set of commonplaces for understanding the labor of coauthorship Specifically Beyond Conversation outlines an interactionist theory that explains collaboration as the rhetorical capacity that manifests in the discursive engagements coauthors enter into with the objects of their writing Drawing on new materialist philosophies post qualitative inquiry and interactionist rhetorical theory Beyond Conversation challenges writing and literacy educators to recognize the pedagogical benefits of collaborative writing in the work they do both as writers and as teachers of writing The book will reinvigorate how teachers scholars and administrators advocate for the importance of collaborative writing in their work

Upsetting Composition Commonplaces Ian Barnard, 2014-10-15 In Upsetting Composition Commonplaces Ian Barnard argues that composition still retains the bulk of instructional practices that were used in the decades before poststructuralist theory discredited them While acknowledging that some of the foundational insights of poststructuralist theory can be difficult to translate to the classroom Barnard upends several especially intransigent tenets that continue to influence the teaching of writing and how students are encouraged to understand writing Using six major principles of writing classrooms and textbooks clarity intent voice ethnography audience and objectivity Barnard looks at the implications of poststructuralist theory for pedagogy While suggesting some evocative poststructuralist pedagogical practices the author focuses on diagnosing the fault lines of composition's refusal of poststructuralism rather than on providing solutions in the form of teaching templates Upsetting Composition Commonplaces addresses the need to more effectively engage in poststructuralist concepts in composition in an accessible and engaging voice that will advance the conversation about relations between the theory and teaching of writing

Gentry Rhetoric Daniel Ellis, 2022-12 Gentry Rhetoric examines the full range of influences on the Elizabethan and Jacobean genteel classes practice of English rhetoric in daily life Daniel Ellis surveys how the gentry of late sixteenth and early seventeenth century Norfolk wrote to and negotiated with each other by employing Renaissance humanist rhetoric both to solidify their identity and authority in resisting absolutism and authoritarianism and to transform the political and social state The rhetorical training that formed the basis of their formal education was one obvious influence Yet to focus on this training exclusively allows only a limited understanding of the way this class developed the strategies that enabled them to negotiate argue and conciliate with one another to such an extent that they could both form themselves as a coherent entity and become the primary shapers of written English's style arrangement and invention Gentry Rhetoric deeply and inductively examines archival materials in which members of the gentry discuss debate and negotiate matters relating to their class interests and political aspirations Humanist rhetoric provided the bedrock of address argumentation and negotiation that allowed the gentry to instigate a political and educational revolution in seventeenth and eighteenth century England

Doing Emotion Laura R. Micciche, 2007 That the emotional realities of teaching have changed significantly over the past decade is undeniable Doing Emotion provides much needed guidance both on understanding these changes and on imagining a responsive pedagogy for these emotionally fraught times a pedagogy grounded not in fear but in hope for better times Richard E Miller For Laura Micciche emotion is neither the enemy of reason nor an irrational response to actions and ideas Rather she argues in the provocative and groundbreaking Doing Emotion that emotion is integral to research discussion analysis and argument that is to the essential fabric of rhetoric and composition Doing Emotion argues for a rhetoric of emotion by foregrounding the idea that emotions are performative enacted and embodied in our social interactions produced between and among individuals and textual objects Emotion is something we do rather than something we have Micciche explores the implications of this claim in the context of writing classrooms administrative structures and the formation of disciplinary identity Drawing upon current research in emotion studies performance studies and feminist rhetorical studies Micciche argues that a shift in our thinking about emotion leads to productive possibilities for teaching and learning Rather than repressing and denying emotionality Micciche demands that we acknowledge its constitutive role in our professional and pedagogical lives as well as in our evolving understandings of textual and extralinguistic meanings
