Evolution Of The:

The Evolution of Atheism Stephen LeDrew, 2015-10-01 The concept of evolution is widely considered to be a foundational building block in atheist thought. Leaders of the New Atheist movement have taken Darwin's work and used it to diminish the authority of religious institutions and belief systems. But they have also embraced it as a metaphor for the gradual replacement of religious faith with secular reason. They have posed as harbingers of human progress, claiming the moral high ground and rejecting with intolerance any message that challenges the hegemony of science and reason. Religion, according to the New Atheists, should be relegated to the Dark Ages of superstition and senseless violence. Yet Darwin did not see evolution as a linear progression to an improved state of being. The more antagonistic members of the New Atheist movement who embrace this idea are not only employing bad history but also the kind of rigid black and white thinking they excoriate in their religious opponents. Indeed, Stephen LeDrew argues, militant atheists have more in common with religious fundamentalists than they would care to admit, advancing what LeDrew calls secular fundamentalism. In reaction to fundamentalist Christianity and Islamism, this strain of atheism has become an offshoot of the religion it tries so hard to malign. The Evolution of Atheism outlines the essential political tension at the heart of the atheist movement. The New Atheism, LeDrew shows, is part of a tradition of atheist thought and activism that promotes individualism and scientific authority, which puts it at odds with atheist groups that are motivated by humanistic ethics and social justice. LeDrew draws on public relations campaigns, publications, podcasts, and in-depth interviews to explore the belief systems, internal logics, and self-contradictions of the people who consider themselves to be atheists. He argues that evolving understandings of what atheism means and how it should be put into action are threatening to irrevocably fragment the movement.

Origin And Evolution Of The Cell, The - Proceedings Of The Conference On The Origin And Evolution Of Prokaryotic And Eukaryotic Cells

K Matsuno, Hyman Hartman, 1993-02-13 This volume examines the origin of eukaryotic cells both phylogenetically and morphogenetically. The evolutionary relationship between prokaryotic and eukaryotic organizations is emphasized. The difference of inferences from ribosomal RNA and protein phylogenetic trees suggests a new possibility of synthesizing an evolutionary origin of eukaryotic cells as integrating morphogenetic contributions.

The Ecology and Evolution of Heliconius Butterflies Chris D. Jiggins, 2017-01-27 The Heliconius butterflies are one of the classic systems in evolutionary biology and have contributed hugely to our understanding of evolution over the last 150 years. Their dramatic radiation and remarkable mimicry has fascinated biologists since the days of Bates, Wallace, and Darwin. The Ecology and Evolution of Heliconius Butterflies is the first thorough and accessible treatment of the ecology, genetics, and behaviour of these butterflies, exploring how they offer remarkable insights into tropical biodiversity. The book starts by outlining some of the evolutionary questions that Heliconius research has helped to address, then moves on to an overview of the butterflies themselves and their ecology and behaviour, before focussing on wing pattern evolution and finally speciation. Richly illustrated with 32 colour plates this book makes the extensive scientific literature on Heliconius butterflies accessible to a wide audience of professional ecologists evolutionary biologists entomologists and amateur collectors Evolution's

Destiny R J P Williams, Ros Rickaby, 2012-08-31 This book is written as an addition to Darwin's work and that of molecular biologists on evolution so as to include views of it from the point of view of chemistry rather than just from our knowledge of the biology and genes of organisms By concentrating on a wide range of chemical elements not just those in traditional organic compounds we show that there is a close relationship between the geological or environmental chemical changes from the formation of Earth and those of organisms from the time of their origin These are considerations which Darwin or other scientists could not have explored until very recent times since sufficient analytical data were not available They lead us to suggest that there is a combined geo and bio chemical evolution that of an ecosystem which has had a systematic chemical development In this development the arrival of new very similar species is shown to be by random Darwinian competitive selection processes such that a huge variety of species coexist with only minor differences in chemistry and advantages This is in agreement with previous studies On the large scale of evolution of very different organisms and over greater timescales by way of contrast we observe that groups of species have special different chemical features and function It is more difficult to understand how they evolved and therefore we examine their chemical development in detail Overall there is a cooperative evolution of a chemical system driven by capture of energy mainly from the sun and its degradation in which the chemistry of both the environment and organisms are facilitating intermediates We shall suggest that the overall drive of the whole joint system is to optimise the rate of this energy degradation Since the environmental changes are inorganic and relatively fast they move inevitably to equilibrium The living part of the system the organisms under the influence of this inevitable environmental change are forced to follow but as they are increasingly energised and their reactions are slow they move further away from equilibrium We are able to explore the ways in which this chemical system evolved recognising that as complexity of the chemistry of organisms increased they had to be formed from more and more compartments and to become part of a chemically cooperative overall activity They could not remain as isolated species Only in the last chapter do we attempt to make a connection between the changing chemistry of organisms with the coded molecules of each cell which have to exist to explain reproduction The American Catalogue, 1905 A Most Improbable Story Steven J. Theroux, 2022-07-26 This book is a Big History of the evidence regarding how we came to be It briefly explores philosophical thought and how our past might affect our future The text summarizes different perspectives including the strengths and weaknesses of each The genesis of our planet is explored especially the circumstances that must exist for complex life to arise This brief journey highlights the history of life the emergence of simple lifeforms and the evolution of complex creatures including humans The book concludes with a discussion of why other humanoids went extinct while our species achieved dominance The author speculates on potentialities awaiting humankind and our planet The first Big History written from the perspective of a biologist Summarizes multiple perspectives of history Documents the unique conditions for the emergence of life Speculates on the future Chapter 12 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com>
