French Dna Trouble In Purgatory:

French DNA Paul Rabinow, 1999 The government insisted that under no circumstances could the CEPH be permitted to give the Americans that most precious of all substances never before named in such a manner French DNA BOOK JACKET French DNA is about international competition the future of human health ferocious financial conflict and the intersection of culture and science the place where finally DNA became French BOOK JACKET Reflections on Fieldwork in Morocco Paul Rabinow, 2016-08-05 In this landmark study now celebrating thirty years in print Paul Rabinow takes as his focus the fieldwork that anthropologists do How valid is the process To what extent do the cultural data become artifacts of the interaction between anthropologist and informants Having first published a more standard ethnographic study about Morocco Rabinow here describes a series of encounters with his informants in that study from a French innkeeper clinging to the vestiges of a colonial past to the rural descendants of a seventeenth century saint In a new preface Rabinow considers the thirty year life of this remarkable book and his own distinguished career The Postgenomic Condition Jenny Reardon, 2017-12-29 Now that we have sequenced the human genome what does it mean In The Postgenomic Condition Jenny Reardon critically examines the decade after the Human Genome Project and the fundamental questions about meaning value and justice this landmark achievement left in its wake Drawing on more than a decade of research in molecular biology labs commercial startups governmental agencies and civic spaces Reardon demonstrates how the extensive efforts to transform genomics from high tech informatics practiced by a few to meaningful knowledge beneficial to all exposed the limits of long cherished liberal modes of knowing and governing life Those in the American South challenged the value of being included in genomics when no hospital served their community Ethicists and lawyers charged with overseeing Scottish DNA and data questioned how to develop a system of ownership for these resources when their capacity to create things of value new personalized treatments remained largely unrealized Molecular biologists who pioneered genomics asked whether their practices of thinking could survive the deluge of data produced by the growing power of sequencing machines While the media is filled with grand visions of precision medicine The Postgenomic Condition shares these actual challenges of the scientists entrepreneurs policy makers bioethicists lawyers and patient advocates who sought to leverage liberal democratic practices to render genomic data a new source of meaning and value for interpreting and caring for life It brings into rich empirical focus the resulting hard on the ground questions about how to know and live on a depleted but data rich interconnected yet fractured planet where technoscience garners significant resources but deeper questions of knowledge and justice urgently demand attention French Civilization and Its Discontents Tyler Edward Stovall, Georges Van den Abbeele, 2003-01-01 French Civilization and Its Discontents Nationalism Colonialism Race explores the ways in which considerations of difference especially colonialism post colonialism and race have shaped French culture and French studies in the modern era Rejecting traditional assimilationist notions of French national identity contributors to this groundbreaking volume demonstrate how literature history and other aspects of what is considered French civilization have been shaped by processes of creolization and differentiation

Drawing the Map of Life Victor K. McElheny, 2010-10-19 Drawing the Map of Life is the dramatic story of the Human Genome Project from its origins through the race to order the 3 billion subunits of DNA to the surprises emerging as scientists seek to exploit the molecule of heredity It s the first account to deal in depth with the intellectual roots of the project the motivations that drove it and the hype that often masked genuine triumphs Distinguished science journalist Victor McElheny offers vivid insightful profiles of key people such as David Botstein Eric Lander Francis Collins James Watson Michael Hunkapiller and Craig Venter McElheny also shows that the Human Genome Project is a striking example of how new techniques such as restriction enzymes and sequencing methods often arrive first shaping the questions scientists then ask Drawing on years of original interviews and reporting in the inner circles of biological science Drawing the Map of Life is the definitive up to date story of today s greatest scientific quest No one who wishes to understand genome mapping and how it is transforming our lives can afford to miss this book What Remains Sarah E. Wagner, 2019-11-05 Nearly 1 600 Americans who took part in the Vietnam War are still missing and presumed dead Sarah Wagner tells the stories of those who mourn and continue to search for them Today s forensic science can identify remains from mere traces raising expectations for repatriation and forcing a new reckoning with the toll of America s most fraught war

Treating AIDS Thurka Sangaramoorthy, 2014-03-26 There is an inherently powerful and complex paradox underlying HIV AIDS prevention between the focus on collective advocacy mobilized to combat global HIV AIDS and the staggeringly disproportionate rates of HIV AIDS in many places In Treating AIDS Thurka Sangaramoorthy examines the everyday practices of HIV AIDS prevention in the United States from the perspective of AIDS experts and Haitian immigrants in South Florida Although there is worldwide emphasis on the universality of HIV AIDS as a social political economic and biomedical problem developments in HIV AIDS prevention are rooted in and focused exclusively on disparities in HIV AIDS morbidity and mortality framed through the rubric of race ethnicity and nationality Everyone is at equal risk for contracting HIV AIDS Sangaramoorthy notes but the ways in which people experience and manage that risk and the disease itself is highly dependent on race ethnic identity sexuality gender immigration status and other notions of difference Sangaramoorthy documents in detail the work of AIDS prevention programs and their effect on the health and well being of Haitians a transnational community long plagued by the stigma of being stereotyped in public discourse as disease carriers By tracing the ways in which public knowledge of AIDS prevention science circulates from sites of surveillance and regulation to various clinics and hospitals to the social worlds embraced by this immigrant community she ultimately demonstrates the ways in which AIDS prevention programs help to reinforce categories of individual and collective difference and how they continue to Death Paolo Palladino,2016-10-20 While the governance of human existence is organised ever increasingly around life and its potential to proliferate beyond all limits much critical reflection on the phenomenon is underpinned by considerations about the very negation of life-death The challenge is to construct an alternative understanding of human existence that is truer to the complexity of the present biopolitical moment Palladino responds to the challenge by drawing upon philosophical historical and sociological modes of inquiry to examine key developments in the history of biomedical understanding of ageing and death He combines this genealogy with close reflection upon its implications for a critical and effective reading of Foucault's and Deleuze's foundational work on the relationship between life-death and embodied existence Biopolitics and the Philosophy of Death proposes that the central task of contemporary critical thought is to find ways of coordinating different ways of thinking about molecules populations and the mortality of the human organism without transforming the notion of life itself into the new transcendent truth that would take the place once occupied by God and Man Biopower

Vernon W. Cisney,Nicolae Morar,2015-12-28 Michel Foucault's notion of biopower has been a highly fertile concept in recent theory influencing thinkers worldwide across a variety of disciplines and concerns In The History of Sexuality An Introduction Foucault famously employed the term to describe a power bent on generating forces making them grow and ordering them rather than one dedicated to impeding them making them submit or destroying them With this volume Vernon W Cisney and Nicolae Morar bring together leading contemporary scholars to explore the many theoretical possibilities that the concept of biopower has enabled while at the same time pinpointing their most important shared resonances Situating biopower as a radical alternative to traditional conceptions of power what Foucault called sovereign power the contributors examine a host of matters centered on life the body and the subject as a living citizen Altogether they pay testament to the lasting relevance of biopower in some of our most important contemporary debates on issues ranging from health care rights to immigration laws HIV prevention discourse genomics medicine and many other topics Life in Crisis Peter Redfield, 2013-02-25 Parts of the chapters were published previously A Companion to the Anthropology of Death Antonius C. G. M. Robben, 2018-04-03 A thought provoking examination of death dying and the afterlife Prominent scholars present their most recent work about mortuary rituals grief and mourning genocide cyclical processes of life and death biomedical developments and the materiality of human corpses in this unique and illuminating book Interrogating our most common practices surrounding death the authors ask such questions as How does the state wrest away control over the dead from bereaved relatives Why do many mourners refuse to cut their emotional ties to the dead and nurture lasting bonds Is death a final condition or can human remains acquire agency The book is a refreshing reassessment of these issues and practices a source of theoretical inspiration in the study of death With contributions written by an international team of experts in their fields A Companion to the Anthropology of Death is presented in six parts and covers such subjects as Governing the Dead in Guatemala After Death Communications ADCs in North America Cryonic Suspension in the Secular Age Blood and Organ Donation in China The Fragility of Biomedicine and more A Companion to the Anthropology of Death is a comprehensive and accessible volume and an ideal resource for senior undergraduate and graduate students in courses such as Anthropology of Death Medical Anthropology Anthropology of Violence Anthropology of the Body and Political Anthropology Written by leading international scholars in their fields A comprehensive survey of the most recent empirical research in the anthropology of death A fundamental critique of the early 20th century founding fathers of the anthropology of death Cross cultural texts from tribal and industrial societies The collection is of interest to anyone concerned with the consequences of the state and massive violence on life and death Corpus M. Casper, P. Currah, 2011-06-20 Corpus begins with the argument that traditional disciplines are unable to fully apprehend the body and embodiment and that critical study of these topics urgently demands interdisciplinary approaches The collection's 14 previously unpublished essays grapple with the place of bodies in a range of twenty first century knowledge practices including trauma surveillance aging fat food feminist technoscience death disability biopolitics and race among others The book's projected audience includes teachers and scholars of bodies and embodiment interdisciplinary scholars and practitioners and scholars interested in the any of the substantive content covered in the book The collection could be adopted in courses on the body at advanced undergraduate and graduate levels including cultural studies queer gender and sexuality studies body and power biopolitics intersectional approaches to the body anthropology of the body sociology of the body embodiment and space digital bodies anthropology of knowledge production health illness and medicine studies science knowledge and technology studies and philosophy and social theory Sweetness in the Blood James Doucet-Battle,2021-03-16 A bold new indictment of the racialization of science Decades of data cannot be ignored African American adults are far more likely to develop Type 2 diabetes than white adults But has science gone so far in racializing diabetes as to undermine the search for solutions In a rousing indictment of the idea that notions of biological race should drive scientific inquiry Sweetness in the Blood provides an ethnographic picture of biotechnology s framings of Type 2 diabetes risk and race and importantly offers a critical examination of the assumptions behind the recruitment of African American and African descent populations for Type 2 diabetes research James Doucet Battle begins with a historical overview of how diabetes has been researched and framed racially over the past century chronicling one company s efforts to recruit African Americans to test their new diabetes risk score algorithm with the aim of increasing the clinical and market value of the firm s technology He considers African American reticence about participation in biomedical research and examines race and health disparities in light of advances in genomic sequencing technology Doucet Battle concludes by emphasizing that genomic research into sub Saharan ancestry in fact underlines the importance of analyzing gender before attempting to understand the notion of race No disease reveals this more than Type 2 diabetes Sweetness in the Blood challenges the notion that the best approach to understanding managing and curing Type 2 diabetes is through the lens of race It also transforms how we think about sugar filling a neglected gap between the sugar and molasses sweetened past of the enslaved African laborer and the high fructose corn syrup and corporate fed body of the contemporary consumer laborer
