Introducing And Managing Academic Library Automation Projects:

Introducing and Managing Academic Library Automation Projects John W. Head, Gerard B. McCabe, 1996-05-14 Though automation in libraries has become more common many academic libraries still lack automation of any kind This professional reference is a guide to the forecasting planning implementing and monitoring necessary for the successful management of academic library automation projects Chapters are written by expert contributors who combine their personal experiences with solid background information on the theory and practice of library automation     Library Automation in Transitional Societies Andrew Lass, Richard Quandt, 2000-02-03 This is a collection of papers from a 1997 conference that attempted to assess the Andrew W Mellon Foundation s efforts to modernize Eastern European libraries after the fall of communism Looking primarily at Hungary Poland the Czech Republic and Slovakia the international panel of contributors cover library automation library policy and management strategy     Cataloging and Classification James R. Shearer, Alan R. Thomas, 1997 Cataloging and Classification Trends Transformations Teaching and Training indicates and describes significant trends in cataloging and classification the practices services management principles professional education and training and employment prospects This is the resource everyone can use to keep their cataloging and classification skills sharp It gives librarians and information professionals awareness of important innovations likely to change the way they do their job enables library directors and managers to do longer range planning and provides library school faculty and students with insight into new developments and approaches with which they need to be familiar Cataloging and Classification Trends Transformations Teaching and Training will increase your awareness and insight into current developments in the field In turn this leads to an appropriate integration and exploration of technologies systems and tools better deployment of personnel and expertise more efficient and relevant user sensitive cataloging and classification faster and more effective preparation and searching of catalogs more efficient and relevant library school courses and training sequences greater appreciation by library personnel and library users of the value of catalogs and classifications Cataloging and Classification Trends Transformations Teaching and Training is presented in three main categories The Cataloger The Future of Classification Systems and New Technology and Its Implications Specific topics you ll read about include the use of vendor services and nontraditional staff for cataloging recommendations for a syndetic curricular structure the call to raise classification and subject analysis to more usable and sophisticated levels an action agenda for technical services in the digital age and an evaluation of the capabilities of OPACs made possible by advances in technology     Planning for a New Generation of Public Library Buildings Gerard B. McCabe, 2000-01-30 The public library director needs information that helps in understanding what is involved in planning for a public library building project This applies whether the subject is a free standing independent building a branch library a joint use facility with a museum a senior academic library a community or junior college library or a school library Reading this book will not turn a reader into a qualified specialist on library buildings but it will help librarians and others learn what should be known about a project so that they may function effectively as part of the planning team The concept of modern libraries is moving toward interactive connections with information sources far beyond the immediate community For the contemporary public library this means connection to a network with several terminals constantly online to the Internet New library buildings must be constructed with these and other needs in mind The public library director needs information that helps in understanding what is involved in planning for a public library building project This applies whether the subject is a free standing independent building a branch library a joint use facility with a museum a senior academic library a community or junior college library or a school library This book will help librarians and others learn what should be known about a project so that they may function effectively as part of the planning team

Introduction to Health Sciences Librarianship Frank Kellerman, 1997-01-21 Health sciences librarianship today demands a balance among computer files human ingenuity and print sources The many information sources presently available enable health sciences librarians to do a better job but that job has also become correspondingly more difficult This professional reference surveys the various types of print and electronic resources important to the health sciences and provides valuable practical advice to librarians for meeting the information needs of researchers practicing physicians and other health professionals Health sciences librarianship today demands a balance among electronic files human ingenuity and print sources Thanks to computerization and telecommunications librarians can do much more now than just a few years ago While the tremendous growth in available resources has enabled librarians to provide more thorough information to patrons the process of doing so has become correspondingly more complex While librarians still need to use many traditional skills they must also develop new ways of finding and utilizing information This professional reference surveys the field of health sciences librarianship and provides extensive practical advice to assist health sciences librarians in meeting the information needs of their patrons Because journal literature is the principal medium of information in the health sciences the book begins with an examination of the roles that journals play as well as the large proportion of the library budget that they consume The volume then discusses techniques of searching journal literature such as print and electronic indexing and abstracting tools Additional chapters are devoted to the selection and organization of health sciences books and reference tools and services Special attention is given to the electronic distribution of biomedical information With important sources of health information now becoming available via the Internet this book provides a point of departure to evaluate those sources The final chapter discusses the various environments that shape health sciences librarianship such as library settings professional associations and economic contexts
