To Raise Up the Man Farthest Down Dana R. Chandler, Edith Powell, 2018-07-10 An important historical account of Tuskegee University's significant advances in health care which affected millions of lives worldwide Alabama's celebrated historically black Tuskegee University is most commonly associated with its founding president Booker T. Washington the scientific innovator George Washington Carver or the renowned Tuskegee Airmen Although the university's accomplishments and devotion to social issues are well known its work in medical research and health care has received little acknowledgment Tuskegee has been fulfilling Washington's vision of healthy minds and bodies since its inception in 1881. In To Raise Up the Man Farthest Down, Dana R. Chandler and Edith Powell document Tuskegee University's medical and public health history with rich archival data and never before published photographs. Chandler and Powell especially highlight the important but largely unsung role that Tuskegee University researchers played in the eradication of polio and they add new dimension and context to the fascinating story of the HeLa cell line that has been brought to the public's attention by popular media. Tuskegee University was on the forefront in providing local farmers the benefits of agrarian research. The university helped create the massive Agricultural Extension System managed today by land grant universities throughout the United States. Tuskegee established the first baccalaureate nursing program in the state and was also home to Alabama's first hospital for African Americans. Washington hired Alabama's first female licensed physician as a resident physician at Tuskegee. Most notably, Tuskegee was the site of a remarkable development in American biochemistry history: its microbiology laboratory was the only one relied upon by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the organization known today as the March of Dimes, to produce the HeLa cell cultures employed in the national field trials for the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines. Chandler and Powell are also interested in correcting a long held but false historical perception that Tuskegee University was the location for the shameful and infamous US Public Health Service study of untreated syphilis. Meticulously researched, this book is filled with previously undocumented information taken directly from the vast Tuskegee University archives. Readers will gain a new appreciation for how Tuskegee's people and institutions have influenced community health, food science, and national medical life throughout the twentieth century.

Race and Democracy in the Americas Georgia A. Persons, 2018-12-07

Race and Democracy in the Americas examines dimensions of the comparative dynamics of race and ethnicity with a directed focus on the Americas, most particularly Brazil and the United States. Brazil and the United States are two countries in the Americas that have been major hosts for the African diaspora. Both countries experienced prolonged enslavement of Africans and both now claim to be beacons of democracy for much of the developing world. Both Afro-Brazilians and African Americans have fielded major liberation movements against racism and oppression yet both groups continue to experience considerable residual racial discrimination and displacement. Brazil and the U.S. remain racialized societies though both officially purport to be otherwise. The chapters of this volume illuminate a common search for understanding how race operates in societies generally and how it shapes life opportunities for African Americans and Afro-Brazilians, both oppressed by this most detrimental social construction. The project that fueled this volume represented a rare opportunity for collaboration between Afro-Brazilian scholars and their African American counterparts. This volume offers a passionate conversation between colleagues who have endured common sociopolitical and cultural struggles but who have only belatedly been able to meet and connect as individuals. Both groups share identities as scholars and activists; for neither identity alone is sufficient to nourish the longings of their hearts nor of their consciences. This volume also represents an all too rare opportunity to give voice and expression to the work of Afro Brazilian scholars Volume 9 of the National Political Science Review also carries a special tribute to Mack Henry Jones a senior black political scientist retiring from Atlanta University and honors Jones s legacy and continues his quest for understanding the nature and intricacies of oppression and possible paths to liberatio

Breaking the Colonial "Contract" Everisto Benyera,2020-05-22 The book exposes various mechanisms and methods by which covert colonial mechanisms are employed to perpetuate colonialism especially in Africa Less overt and more covert perpetuation of colonialism is done through the use of networks The main achievement of the initial phase of colonialism was the establishment of networks that are nefarious and omnipresent constituting distributed presence which allows for action at a distance As a result colonial subjects became willing participants in these processes unbeknownst to them which perpetuated their own colonialism The book exposes forms of colonialism where manufactured consent is used to perpetuate colonialism Trapped in this capitalist Western Christian language and moral world order without sovereignty African countries continuously sink deeper into the colonial quagmire

Towards a Christian Theology of African Ancestors Thomas Ochieng Otanga,2023-04-21 This book examines the similarities and relationship between Christian saints and African ancestors Further it analyzes the deep cultural roots of African peoples and the ancestral frame as a point of departure for developing an indigenous African theology Questions dealt with include Does the conversion of Africans to Christianity require a break with their African cultural heritage Who is an African ancestor Is syncretism a good thing for an African Christian What contribution can the African church make to the universal church The author argues that rather than being antithetical to formal Christianity an African Christian theology of ancestors is an example of how an indigenous African tradition can best express Christianity as well as make considerable impact on world Christianity

Counseling African American Males Dr. William Ross, 2016-06-01 There is no one method for doing culturally alert counseling Instead culturally alert counseling consists of intentionally adapting existing ways to help clients 1 understand their socially constructed worldviews through culture 2 appreciate their various cultures 3 to make choices about adherence to cultural norms and 4 to recognize and respond to external bias relating to their cultural group membership

The Search for Wholeness and Diaspora Literacy in Contemporary African American Literature Silvia Castro-Borrego, 2011-05-25 This volume has as a cohesive argument the exploration of the different manifestations of the search for wholeness and spirituality in the writings of contemporary African American women writers covering different literary genres such as fiction both novels and short stories drama and poetry Together with the issue of spirituality the African American search for wholeness is analyzed as a source of creativity and agency As expressed in the contemporary literature of black women writers starting in the 1980s the search for wholeness reflects a beauty realized through the healing of the spirit and the body and is a process that takes on dimensions of reconciling the past and the present the mythical and the real the spiritual and the physical all in the context of an emerging world view that welcomes synthesis and expects both synthesis and generative contradictions The book will be a valuable collection for scholars of African American literature comparative American Ethnic literature American literature and spirituality as well as women s studies In addition it will be an important text for both undergraduate and graduate students in those fields As Professor Johnnella Butler 2006 points out the African American search for wholeness is tightly linked to the search for freedom and agency Ever since the 19th century African American writers have given expression to an African American self which functions in Western civilization simultaneously as a colonized other and an assertive self Due to the continuous ordeal of the African Diaspora this self is caught in between the binaries proposed by the material and the spiritual world seeking a balance where the person can become whole The search for wholeness feeds from cultural roots that imply the presence of ancestral spiritualism rememory and double consciousness Contemporary black women writers reflect the metaphor of building spiritual bridges seeking the possibilities of building a bridge to the archetypal African past that is carried in their memories as a presence that offers sustenance via spiritual reconnection Their works seek to bridge the gap between the myths and traditions of the past and contemporary African American culture The texts included in this collection are examples of writing as an exercise of what V v Clark calls Diaspora literacy The texts written by contemporary African American women writers explicitly show how to recognize and read the cultural signs left scattered along the road of progress In this way material acquisition is achieved along with cultural dispossession becoming a metaphor for the history of the African in America The powerful message is that one should not exclude the other

The African Origins of Rhetoric Cecil Blake, 2010-07 Through a critical analysis of ancient African texts that predate Greco Roman treatises Cecil Blake revisits the roots of rhetorical theory and challenges what is often advanced as the darkness metaphor the rhetorical construction of Africa and Africans Blake offers a thorough examination of Ptah hotep and core African ethical principles Maat and engages rhetorical scholarship within the wider discourse of African development In so doing he establishes a direct relationship between rhetoric and development studies in non western societies and highlights the prospect for applying such principles to ameliorating the development malaise of the continent

Fostering Mixed Race Children Fiona Peters, 2017-01-13 The mixed race classification is known to be a factor of disadvantage in children s social care and this fastest growing population is more likely than any other ethnic group to experience care admission How does knowledge of mixedness underpin policy and practice How when and why is the classification mixed a disadvantage Through narrative interviews with children currently in foster care Fostering Mixed Race Children examines the impact of care processes on children s everyday experiences Peters shows how the mixed race classification affects care admission including both short and long term fostering and care leaving and shapes the experiences of children in often adverse ways The book moves away from the psychologising of mixedness towards a much needed sociological analysis of mixedness and mixing at the intersection of foster care processes This book will be of interest to academics and practitioners working with families and children Peters presents a child centred narrative focus and offers unique insights into a complex area

Chaotic Justice John Ernest, 2009-11-15 What is African American about African American literature Why identify it as a distinct tradition John Ernest contends that too often scholars have relied on naive concepts of race superficial conceptions of African American history and the marginalization of important strains of black scholarship With this book he creates a new and just retelling of African American literary history that neither ignores nor transcends racial history Ernest revisits the work of nineteenth century writers and activists such as Henry Box Brown Frederick Douglass Harriet Wilson William Wells Brown and Sojourner Truth demonstrating that their concepts of justice were far more radical than those imagined by most white sympathizers He sheds light on the process of reading publishing studying and historicizing this work during the twentieth century Looking ahead to the future of the field Ernest offers new principles of justice that grant fragmented histories partial recoveries and still unprinted texts the same value as canonized works His proposal is both a historically informed critique of the field and an invigorating challenge to present and future scholars
