
NOTE FOR THE READER

The book you are about to read requires some preliminary clarifications.

First, this essay proposes an agreement with the reader, a request for engagement. I ask for a willingness to be open and exposed to different movements of language as an ongoing experience of reading. I have conceived this text as a sort of wayfaring, and I suggest approaching the experience of drinking a glass of wine in the same way: each path followed, each sip ingested, can offer different thoughts and different feelings. Like a glass of wine, moreover, the text can be understood and felt in different ways, depending on the background of the reader. Inviting openness to multiple perspectives is the main reason why names and notes are reduced to a minimum.

Second, the essay comprises two parts, representing two different periods of the journey. These periods differ in time: the first was written between 2015 and 2016, the second in 2017 and 2018. In the Italian version, they correspond to two different books, published, respectively, in 2016 and 2018. This temporal gap entails not only the appearance, in the second part, of new issues as well as the deepening of some already presented in the first but also a clear difference in the form and style of writing.
