Governing Chinas Multiethnic Frontiers:

Governing China's Multiethnic Frontiers Morris Rossabi, 2004 Leading scholars examine the Chinese government's administration of its ethnic minority regions particularly border areas where ethnicity is at times a volatile issue and where separatist movements are feared Chapters focus on the Muslim Hui multiethnic southwest China Inner Mongolia Xinjiang and Tibet Together these studies provide an overview of government relations with key minority populations against which one can view evolving dialogues and disputes Contributors are Gardner Bovington David Bachman Uradyn E Bulag Melvyn C Goldstein Mette Halskov Hansen Matthew T Kapstein and Jonathan Lipman Governing China's Multiethnic Frontiers

Morris Rossabi, 2004 Leading scholars examine the Chinese government's administration of its ethnic minority regions China's Western Frontier and Eurasia Zenel Garcia, 2021-09-16 China has emerged as a dominant power in Eurasian affairs that not only exercises significant political and economic power but increasingly ideational power too Since the founding of the People's Republic Chinese Communist Party leaders have sought to increase state capacity and exercise more effective control over their western frontier through a series of state building initiatives Although these initiatives have always incorporated an international component the collapse of the USSR increasing globalization and the party's professed concerns about terrorism separatism and extremism have led to a region building project in Eurasia Garcia traces how domestic elite led narratives about security and development generate state building initiatives and then region building projects He also assesses how region building projects are promoted through narratives of the historicity of China's engagement in Eurasia the promotion of norms of non interference and appeals to mutual development Finally he traces the construction of regions through formal and informal institutions as well as integrative infrastructure By presenting three phases of Chinese domestic state building and region building from 1988 present Garcia shows how region building projects have enabled China to increase state capacity control and development in its western frontier Recommended for scholars of China's international relations and development policy Beyond the Steppe Frontier Sören Urbansky, 2021-12-14 Over two thousand miles long the boundary between Russia and China is the world's longest land border Though sometimes considered a backwater the border region was always of critical geopolitical importance and has a fascinating history Not only did this border divide the two largest Eurasian empires it was also the place where European and Asian civilizations met where nomads and settled peoples mingled where the imperial interests of Russia China and Japan clashed and where both conflicts and gestures of friendship between the world's largest Communist regimes were staged This book is a history of this border from the late nineteenth century until the fall of the Soviet Union The border has undergone a remarkable transformation since the late nineteenth century As late as the 1920s Russian Chinese and native worlds were intricately interwoven in the region and the frontier was barely regulated By the end of the twentieth century however the two countries had succeeded in cutting kin cultural economic and religious connections between the two sides through deportation forced assimilation and nationalist propaganda campaigns Only with the collapse of the Soviet Union would China and Russia reopen the border but even today the line between countries demarcates two distinct regions with remarkably different worldviews and cultures Drawing on sources in seven languages including extensive archival research interviews and oral histories Urbansky stresses the significant role of the local population in supporting or more often undermining the two states border making efforts

China's Last Imperial Frontier Xiuyu Wang, 2011-11-28 China's Last Imperial Frontier explores imperial China's frontier expansion in the Tibetan borderlands during the last decades of the Qing The empire mounted a series of military attacks against indigenous chieftaincies and Buddhist monasteries in the east Tibetan region seeking to replace native authorities with state bureaucrats by redrawing the politically diverse frontier into a system of Chinese style counties Historically at all the strategic frontier locations the state had been for the most part outstripped by local institutions in political military and ideological strengths With perceived threats from the Anglo Russian Great Game accentuating Qing vulnerability in Tibet the Sichuan government took advantage of the frontier crisis by encroaching upon local and Lhasa domains in Kham Even though the Kham campaign was portrayed in Qing official discourse as a part of the nationwide reforms of New Policies xinzheng and administrative regularization gaitu guiliu its progress on the ground was influenced by the dynamics of interregional relations including Sichuan's competition with central Tibet power struggles among Qing frontier officials and varied Khampa responses to the new regime The growing regionalism intensified the resistance of local forces to imperial authority Despite the uneven results of the late Qing campaign it had come to serve as an important source of sovereignty claims and policy inspirations for the subsequent governments

Ethnicity and Urban Life in China Xiaowei Zang, 2007-04-13 Using both qualitative and quantitative data derived from fieldwork in Lanzhou between 2001 and 2004 this much needed work on ethnicity in Asia offers a major sociological analysis of Hui Muslims in contemporary China

China Networks Jens Damm, Mechthild Leutner, 2009 Networks ranging from village level to transnational level have always played a crucial role in Chinese society The contributors to this volume aim to trace the interaction between various networks which have existed from the 19th century to the present day The articles deal with theoretical concepts historical examples such as non state responses to the North China Famine 1876 1879 the role of missionaries in the modernization of China and disaster management including recent inter ethnic business competition in Hong Kong Han settlers in Xinjiang temple festivals in Macau and urban migrants social networks in today's China By drawing on new material and theoretical frameworks these studies shed fresh light on the ways in which various forms of networks have shaped Chinese society while at the same time questioning traditional and rigid perspectives of Chinese society based solely on networks and guanxi

Eurasia Justin Jacobs argues for a reconceptualization of the modern Chinese state as a national empire He shows how strategies for administering this region in the late Qing Republican and Communist eras were molded by and shaped in response to the rival platforms of ethnic difference characterized by Soviet and other geopolitical competitors across Inner and East Asia This riveting narrative tracks Xinjiang political history through the Bolshevik revolution the warlord years Chinese civil war and the large scale Han immigration in the People s Republic of China as well as the efforts of the exiled Xinjiang government in Taiwan after 1949 to claim the loyalty of Xinjiang refugees
