Crime Fiction and National Identities in the Global Age Julie H. Kim, 2020-05-05 To read a crime novel today largely simulates the exercise of reading newspapers or watching the news The speed and frequency with which today's bestselling works of crime fiction are produced allow them to mirror and dissect nearly contemporaneous socio political events and conflicts This collection examines this phenomenon and offers original critical essays on how national identity appears in international crime fiction in the age of populism and globalization These essays address topics such as the array of competing nationalisms in Europe Indian secularism versus Hindu communalism the populist rhetoric tinged with misogyny or homophobia in the United States racial religious or ethnic others who are sidelined in political appeals to dominant native voices and the increasing economic chasm between a rich and poor More broadly these essays inquire into themes such as how national identity and various conceptions of masculinity are woven together how dominant native cultures interact with migrant and colonized cultures to explore insider outsider paradigms and identity politics and how generic and cultural boundaries are repeatedly crossed in postcolonial detective fiction Women of Mystery Martha Hailey DuBose, Margaret C. Thomas, 2000-12-11 And though she laments So many mysteries so little time she makes a good effort at mentioning some of the best of the rest BOOK JACKET American Independent Cinema Jim Hillier, 2001-03 No Marketing Blurb Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007, 2008-02 Criminal Femmes Fatales in American Hardboiled Crime Fiction Maysaa Husam Jaber, 2016-02-02 This book fills a gap in both literary and feminist scholarship by offering the first major study of femme fatales in hardboiled crime fiction Maysaa Jaber shows that the criminal literary figures in the genre open up powerful spaces for imagining female agency in direct opposition to the constraining forces of patriarchy and misogyny The Advocate, 2002 Fatal Fictions Alison L. LaCroix, Richard H. McAdams, Martha Craven Nussbaum, 2017 Writers of fiction

have always confronted topics of crime and punishment This age old fascination with crime on the part of both authors and readers is not surprising given that criminal justice touches on so many political and psychological themes essential to literature and comes equipped with a trial process that contains its own dramatic structure This volume explores this profound and enduring literary engagement with crime investigation and criminal justice The collected essays explore three themes that connect the world of law with that of fiction First defining and punishing crime is one of the fundamental purposes of government along with the protection of victims by the prevention of crime And yet criminal punishment remains one of the most abused and terrifying forms of political power Second crime is intensely psychological and therefore an important subject by which a writer can develop and explore character A third connection between criminal justice and fiction involves the inherently dramatic nature of the legal system itself particularly the trial Moreover the ongoing public conversation about crime and punishment suggests that the time is ripe for collaboration between law and literature in this troubled domain The essays in this collection span a wide array of genres including tragic drama science fiction lyric poetry autobiography and mystery novels The works discussed include works as old as fifth century BCE Greek tragedy and as recent as contemporary novels memoirs and mystery novels The cumulative result is arresting there are killer wives and crimes against trees a government bureaucrat who sends political adversaries to their death for treason before falling to the same fate himself a convicted murderer who doesn't die when hanged a psychopathological collector whose quite sane kidnapping victim nevertheless also collects Justice Thomas reading and misreading of Bigger Thomas a man who forgives his son's murderer and one who cannot forgive his wife's non-existent adultery fictional detectives who draw on historical analysis to solve murders These essays begin a conversation and they illustrate the great depth and power of crime in literature
