Remembering Vancouver's Disappeared Women Amber Dean, 2016-01-27 Between the late 1970s and the early 2000s at least sixty five women many of them members of Indigenous communities were found murdered or reported missing from Vancouver's Downtown Eastside In a work driven by the urgency of this ongoing crisis which extends across the country Amber Dean offers a timely critical analysis of the public representations memorials and activist strategies that brought the story of Vancouver's disappeared women to the attention of a wider public Remembering Vancouver's Disappeared Women traces what lives on from the violent loss of so many women from the same neighbourhood Dean interrogates representations that aim to humanize the murdered or missing women asking how these might inadvertently feed into the presumed dehumanization of sex work Indigeneity and living in the Downtown Eastside of Vancouver Taking inspiration from Indigenous women's research activism and art she challenges readers to reckon with our collective implication in the ongoing violence of settler colonialism and to accept responsibility for addressing its countless injustices Enterprise,

Deprivation and Social Exclusion Alan Southern, 2012-04-27 There is little doubt that in recent years enterprise has been considered an essential approach in the alleviation of deprivation existing in the developed world The assumption is that area based initiatives provide a means by which enterprise can include all members of society in mainstream social and economic activities The rationale behind Enterprise Deprivation and Social Exclusion is to critically challenge the notion that enterprise can address the complexity behind deprivation and social exclusion by demonstrating UK and North American examples We see how enterprise has come to be regarded as a means by which poverty can be reduced and new opportunities can be opened up to support individuals However the authors here seek to give a greater appreciation to the structural roots of deprivation and pose questions about whether or not enterprise might actually exacerbate structures of social and economic exclusion What if enterprise actually maintains differences between types of community and keeps individuals entrenched in certain ways of thinking The contributions in this edited collection will offer a distinct opportunity in respect of both theoretical and empirical advancement The authors hail from both sides of the Atlantic and form an inter disciplinary group to provide complementary perspectives in this field In Plain Sight Leslie A. Robertson, Dara Culhane, 2005 Seven life stories from Vancouver's Downtown Eastside giving voice to women who are seldom heard on their own terms World Stages, Local Audiences Peter Dickinson, 2010-08-15 This book argues that the forms of intimacy and identification that come from being part of the public of a local performance provide a potential model for rethinking our roles as world citizens Using his own experience of recent theatrical practice in Vancouver as a starting point Dickinson maps the spaces of connection and contestation the flows of sentiment and social responsibility produced by different communities in response to global sports spectacles He also analyzes how such topics are taken up in the work of playwrights conceptual installation and
