

putting an end to the second act. I remember you advising me not to publish my first-bleats, on Hampstead Heath - I am returning advice upon your basis.
Most of the Poems in the volume I send you have been written above two years, and would never have been published but from a hope of gain; so you see, I am inclined enough to take your advice now. I must express once more my deep sense of your kindness, adding my sincere thanks and respects for Mrs. Shelley. I in the hope of soon seeing you remain

most sincerely
