

Manon Brouillette
Chair of the Board
Hydro-Québec
75, boulevard René-Lévesque Ouest
Montréal, QC, H2Z 1A4

Dear Chair Brouillette,

Hydro-Québec is currently facing a significant opportunity to help protect a fish species, the American eel, by installing an eel ladder for fish passage in conjunction with the renovations at Carillon. You, in this moment, have the power to change the fate of this species for the better. By doing so, you will significantly improve the ecological health of the entire Ottawa River watershed. We urge you to read our request in full and to provide us with a response.

Over the past four decades, the American eel population in the Ottawa River has plummeted by a staggering 99%. While various factors contribute to this decline, hydroelectric dams pose one of the greatest threats to this iconic species. The presence of hydroelectric dams restricts migration and diminishes access to freshwater habitats, impacting not only American eels but also numerous other aquatic species. The Carillon Generating Station is located at the mouth of the mighty Ottawa River, thereby acting as the single largest barrier for aquatic species to enter the Ottawa River on migration routes.

More than two years have passed since you announced the renovation project at the Carillon Generating Station. Shortly after this announcement, Ottawa Riverkeeper identified an opportunity for an eel ladder to be installed at this location. We launched a campaign advocating for the addition of an eel ladder as an integral part of the modernization efforts. Regrettably, we are still awaiting confirmation of the inclusion of an eel ladder at the Carillon dam to facilitate the migration of the American eel.

Hydro-Québec has taken commendable steps to provide passage for American eels with the construction of eel ladders at the Chambly dam and Beauharnois generating station. The installation of two eel ladders at the Beauharnois generating station in 2002 has proven highly successful in facilitating the migration of American eels into Lake Ontario. Over 50,000 American eels ascend the ladder each year, with more than 700,000 eels having utilized the Beauharnois facility to migrate upstream to Lake Ontario. Similarly, the installation of an eel ladder at the Chambly Dam along the Richelieu River has yielded similar positive outcomes.

Hydro-Québec has also collaborated in improving downstream migration survival rates for American eels. These efforts are an important step to improve the survival of the American eel. These examples serve as compelling evidence of the transformative impact that Hydro-Québec can achieve. We applaud these efforts and we request that you apply the same level of concern and responsibility by implementing an eel ladder at the Carillon power station to aid in the survival of the American eel.

The Ottawa River, as the largest tributary of the St. Lawrence River, plays an irreplaceable role as a vital habitat for the American eel. The Ottawa River's sprawling 3,700 km² expanse, compared to the Upper St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario's combined 5,800 km², makes it a critical habitat for this
