Lehmann,2019-12-02 How is affective experience produced in the cinema And how can we write a history of this experience By asking these questions this study by Hauke Lehmann aims at rethinking our conception of a critical period in US film history the New Hollywood as a moment of crisis that can neither be reduced to economic processes of adaption nor to a collection of masterpieces Rather the fine grained analysis of core films reveals the power of cinematic images to affect their audiences to confront them with the new The films of the New Hollywood redefine the divisions of the classical genre system in a radical way and thereby transform the way spectators are addressed affectively in the cinema The study describes a complex interplay between three modes of affectivity suspense paranoia and melancholy All three each in their own way implicate spectators in the deep seated contradictions of their own feelings and their ways of being in the world their relations to history to society and to cultural fantasy On this basis Affect Poetics of the New Hollywood projects an original conception of film history as an affective history which can be re written up to the present day Fundamental Concepts in Phonology Ken Lodge,2009-06-01 This book is an investigation of the basic concepts of phonological theory In particular it is concerned with the concepts of sameness and difference each a sine qua non of classification It is assumed that all academic disciplines operate with these two basic concepts when classification is involved Since phonology is the area of linguistics that deals with the interface between the abstract system of native speaker knowledge and physical entities in the world the linguistic classification of those physical entities needs to be guided by clear and rigorously applied criteria for deciding what constitutes the same sound and what not During the development of modern linguistics over the past hundred years or so it has generally been assumed that the criteria for classification are to be found in a segmented version of the phonetic continuum of spoken language This is still largely the case today even though the system of native speaker knowledge of language is seen as a highly abstract mental representation of that knowledge This book questions the basis of such assumptions in particular segmentation abstractness monosystemicity and derivation History and Ethnicity

Elizabeth Tonkin,Maryon McDonald,Malcolm Chapman,2016-04-14 These essays examine the importance of historical consciousness and the role of historiography in ethnic situations exploring the many ways in which ethnic groups select history write or rewrite it rescue appropriate or ignore it forget or traduce it Drawing on expert knowledge of regions ranging from the Amazon to contemporary Germany the contributors bring anthropological and historical understanding to answer these questions and investigate major topics such as the relationship between ethnic national and state identifications and the cultural work of creating them Examples include Afrikaaners and Northern Ireland Protestants as well as Mormons and Catalans Bringing together a variety of themes that have recently become the focus of study ethnicity the uses and nature of history and the likelihood of objectivity in historical telling the book will be of great interest ot students in the social sciences anthropology politics history and international relations Engineering and Contracting ,1922
