Li Yu:

The Invention of Li Yu Patrick Hanan, 1988 Li Yu 1610-1680 was a brilliant comic writer and entertainer, a thoroughgoing professional whose life was in his work: plays, stories, a novel, criticism, essays, and poems. Patrick Hanan places him in the society of his day where even his precarious livelihood, his constant search for patronage, did not dampen his versatility, his irreverent wit, or his jocund spirit. Li was also an epicure, an inventor, a pundit, and a designer of houses and gardens. He was an exceptional figure in Chinese culture for two reasons: his disregard of the authority of tradition and his dedication to the cause of comedy. Hanan uses the term 'invention' in his title in several ways: Li Yu's invention of himself, his public image, his originality, and inventiveness in a multitude of fields and the literary products of his inventiveness. With expert and entertaining translations, Hanan explores the key features of Li Yu's work, summarizing, describing, and quoting extensively to convey Li's virtuosity, his unconventionality, his irreverence, his ribaldry. This is a splendid introduction to the art and persona of a Chinese master of style and ingenuity. A River in Springtime Yu Li, Susan Wan Dolling, 1997

The Substance of Fiction Sophie Volpp, 2022-06-28 Do the portrayals of objects in literary texts represent historical evidence about the material culture of the past? Or are things in books more than things in the world? Sophie Volpp considers fictional objects of the late Ming and Qing that defy being read as illustrative of historical things. Instead, she argues, fictional objects are often signs of fictionality themselves, calling attention to the nature of the relationship between literature and materiality. Volpp examines a series of objects: a robe, a box, and a shell, a telescope, a plate, glass, mirror, and a painting drawn from the canonical works frequently mined for information about late imperial material culture, including the novels The Plum in the Golden Vase and The Story of the Stone, as well as the short fiction of Feng Menglong, Ling Mengchu, and Li Yu. She argues that although fictional objects invite readers to think of them as illustrative, in fact, inconsistent and discontinuous representation disconnects the literary object from potential historical analogues. The historical resonances of literary objects illuminate the rhetorical strategies of individual works of fiction and more broadly, conceptions of fictionality in the Ming and Qing. Rather than offering a transparent lens on the past, fictional objects train the reader to be aware of the fallibility of perception. A deeply insightful analysis of late Ming and Qing texts and reading practices, The Substance of Fiction has important implications for Chinese literary studies, history, and art history, as well as the material turn in the humanities.

This is a book with comprehensive writeup of the barbarians' history spanning more than one thousand years from before the anno domini era and inclusive of the expulsion of the Mongols from China. China's Southern Tang Dynasty, 937-976 Johannes L. Kurz, 2011-03-25 The Southern Tang was one of China's minor dynasties and one of the great states in China in the tenth century Although often regarded as one of several states preceding the much better known Song dynasty 960-1279 the Southern Tang dynasty was in fact the key state in this period preserving cultural values and artefacts from the former great Tang dynasty 618-907 which were to form the basis of Song rule and thereby presenting the Song with a direct link to the Tang and its traditions Drawing mainly on primary Chinese sources this is the first book in English to provide a comprehensive overview of the Southern Tang and full coverage of military cultural and political history in the period It focuses on a successful albeit short-lived attempt to set up an independent regional state in the modern provinces of Jiangxi and Jiangsu and establishes the Southern Tang dynasty in its own right It follows the rise of the Southern Tang state to become the predominant claimant of the Tang heritage and the expansionist policies of the second ruler culminating in the occupation and annexation of the two of the Southern Tang's neighbours Min Fujian and Chu Hunan Finally the narrative describes the decline of the dynasty under its last ruler the famous poet Li Yu and its ultimate surrender to the Song dynasty Cross-generic Perspectives on Traditional Chinese Literature Manling Luo, 2024-12-30 This volume explores cross-generic analysis as a hermeneutic approach to traditional Chinese literature through nine case studies which cover a combined temporal span from the tenth to the twentieth century The contributors examine connections parallels and dialogic relations among canonical literary forms and other kinds of materials both diachronically and synchronically across and within texts and between different modes of representation A wide range of theoretical issues are elucidated including cultural memory gender sexuality visibility theatricality and regional identity Expanding conventional understanding of what constitutes the literary these studies also complicate and contribute to intellectual discourses beyond China studies Love for a Laugh: The Comic in Romantic Chuanqi Plays of the 17th and 18th Centuries Yanbing Tan, 2023-05-25 After the strikingly beautiful Peony Pavilion how could one write about love and the ideal of emotional authenticity qing in the chuanqi genre This book presents a group of creative dramatists who confronted this challenge by giving the romantic theme of chuanqi their unique comic twists This book demonstrates how their comic articulations bring the qing ideal down to the mundane world of family obligations political ambitions commercial interests and gender frustrations By highlighting the crucial but understudied role that the comic plays this book enriches our understanding of the intellectual depth and critical scope of the chuanqi genre Metaphorical Practices in
