Letters From A Father To His Son Enterin:

Letters from a Father to His Son Entering College Charles Franklin Thwing, 1912 Letters from a Father to his Son, on his entering the Army. ... By an old Officer ,1833 A Letter of Advice from a Father to His Son, Just Entering Into Holy Orders ,1762 Letters from a Father to His Son Entering College Charles Franklin Thwing, 2021-04-25

In Letters from a Father to His Son Entering College Charles Franklin Thwing elegantly weaves a series of poignant correspondences that serve as both a guide and a reflection on the transformative experience of higher education. Written in an epistolary style, the letters are infused with practical wisdom, ethical considerations, and moral guidance that remain relevant in the academic and personal development of young adults. Positioned within the late 19th-century educational discourse, Thwing engages with contemporary themes of character formation, intellectual curiosity, and the evolving role of universities, providing a contextually rich exploration of the responsibilities and opportunities that accompany a college education. Thwing, an influential educator and president of Baldwin Wallace College, was deeply committed to shaping the academic landscape and fostering the ideals of personal growth in students. His extensive experience in academia, coupled with the personal connection to his son, imbues the text with authenticity and emotional resonance. Thwing's insights draw from a well of practical experience and pedagogical philosophy, providing a rare glimpse into the 19th-century mindset concerning education and familial bonds. This book is an invaluable resource for parents and educators seeking to understand the intricacies of young adulthood and transitional experiences. Thwing's poignant reflections are not just advice for students entering college; they are timeless admonitions that invite readers to introspect and engage deeply with their academic journey. By immersing readers in this heartfelt discourse, the letters illuminate the path toward intellectual and personal fulfillment.

Letters From a Father to His Son Entering College (Classic Reprint) Charles Franklin Thwing, 2016-09-09

Excerpt from Letters From a Father to His Son Entering College: Parts of the letters that make up this little book were read to my own college boys at the opening of a college year. They represent somewhat but of course only a bit of what I believe many a father would like to say to his own son as I to mine when he is entering the most important year of his college life, the Freshman. Those who first heard them, even though obliged to hear, seemed to suffer them gladly. They are therefore brought together and sent out to fathers and to sons, and with a peculiar feeling of sympathy for both the parent and the boy at one of the crises of the life of each.
