Keeping House In Lusaka:

Home economics Sacha Hepburn, 2022-08-16 Domestic service has long been one of the largest forms of urban employment across southern Africa Home economics provides the first comprehensive history of this essential sector in the decades following independence and the end of apartheid Focusing on Lusaka and drawing wider comparisons the book traces how Black workers and employers adapted existing models of domestic service as part of broader responses to changing gendered employment patterns economic decline and endemic poverty It reveals how kin based domestic service gradually displaced wage labour and how women and girl workers came to dominate kin based and waged domestic service with profound consequences for labour regulation and worker organising Theoretically innovative and empirically rich the book provides essential insights into debates about gender work and urban economies that are critical to understanding southern Africa's post colonial and post apartheid history

A Place to Live Ann Schlyter, 1996 Be it a house or a makeshift a shared or rented room or a home of one's own a place to live is central in the survival strategies of all urban households In this volume the above authors explore the gendered experiences of housing and housing rights in African countries The collection begins with articles on conceptual and methodological problems in gender aware research The following articles present cases showing a wide variety in housing experiences a variety which depends on urban setting tenure forms stage in the life cycle or other factors There are many differences but also many similarities in the pattern of women not having the same access and control over housing as men have While women are often the main bread winners they are also the home makers in the literal sense that it is women who put intense efforts into making a place home

Unreasonable Histories Christopher J. Lee, 2015-02-20 In Unreasonable Histories Christopher J Lee unsettles the parameters and content of African studies as currently understood At the book's core are the experiences of multiracial Africans in British Central Africa contemporary Malawi Zimbabwe and Zambia from the 1910s to the 1960s Drawing on a spectrum of evidence including organizational documents court records personal letters commission reports popular periodicals photographs and oral testimony Lee traces the emergence of Anglo African Euro African and Eurafrican subjectivities which constituted a grassroots Afro Britishness that defied colonial categories of native and non native Discriminated against and often impoverished these subaltern communities crafted a genealogical imagination that reconfigured kinship and racial descent to make political claims and generate affective meaning But these critical histories equally confront a postcolonial reason that has occluded these experiences highlighting uneven imperial legacies that still remain Based on research in five countries Unreasonable Histories ultimately revisits foundational questions in the field to argue for the continent's diverse heritage and to redefine the meanings of being African in the past and present and for the future

The Management of Urban Development in Zambia Emmanuel Mutale, 2017-11-30 Over the past few decades the developing world has seen unprecedented urban growth and urban areas have had to deal with a number of complex problems as a result While population growth is one of the factors contributing to the deprivation and decay characteristic of most urban areas in the developing world there are other factors Apart from demographic and economic factors the political organization factor of centralization has concentrated decision making and with it resources in the urban areas leading to further rural urban migration Another factor is one of colonialism The transfer of foreign social structures and technology while offering alternatives has dislocated and significantly altered indigenous patterns of development in the developing world This book examines a region where this last factor is a major significance Zambia s copperbelt Here the concentration of towns which were developed very rapidly in the 1930s made Zambia one of the most highly urbanized Sub Saharan countries By focusing on copperbelt towns the book provides a critical analysis of the development of urban policy in Zambia Aspects of conflict and cooperation between different interest groups and where relevant their economic relationships are explored and a structural conflict model of urban management is proposed The book concludes that with proper management existing and emerging sectional interests in urban areas can help provide conditions which foster the formulation of equitable urban policy Although focused on Zambia the proposed structural conflict approach has potential for wider application

The Design of Frontier Spaces Carolyn Loeb, Andreas Luescher, 2016-03-09 In a globalizing world frontiers may be in flux but they remain as significant as ever New borders are established even as old borders are erased Beyond lines on maps however borders are spatial zones in which distinctive architectural graphic and other design elements are deployed to signal the nature of the space and to guide if not actually control behaviour and social relations within it This volume unpacks how manipulations of space and design in frontier zones historically as well as today set the stage for specific kinds of interactions and convey meanings about these sites and the experiences they embody Frontier zones organize an array of functions to facilitate the passage of goods information and people and to define and control access Bringing together studies from Asia Africa the Middle East Europe and North America this collection of essays casts a wide net to consider borders of diverse sorts Investigations of contemporary political frontiers are set within the context of examinations of historical borders borders that have existed within cities and virtual borders This range allows for reflection on shifts in how frontier zones are articulated and the impermanence of border emplacements as well as on likely scenarios for future frontiers This text is unique in bringing together a number of scholarly perspectives in the arts and humanities to examine how spatial and architectural design decisions convey meaning shape or abet specific social practices and stage memories of frontier zones that no longer function as such It joins and expands discussions in social science disciplines in which considerations of border practices tend to overlook the role of built form and material culture more broadly in representing social practices and meanings

Home and Hegemony Kathleen M. Adams, Sara Dickey, 2000 Original and provocative essays on the construction of identity and hegemony

Towards Negotiated Co-management of Natural Resources in Africa L. B. Venema, 1999 Within the field of management of natural resources this book focuses on the various approaches of policy formulation and implementation The question central to this book is how to co operate with people the various categories of residents as well as non residents in the rural areas in a top down a participatory or a contractual co management way On the basis of a comparative analysis of 12 case studies in the book these three approaches are thoroughly discussed and their internal and external constraints examined The book starts with an editorial chapter discussing the recent administrative and political developments in Africa as well as the new opportunities which they offer for policies in the field of environment and development The question is brought up whether the recent processes of decentralization democratization and empowerment of local organizations have indeed created new opportunities or that they have only superficially changed the political culture of the countries concerned In the concluding chapter of the book the approaches are contrasted to each other as logical models each with its own potentiality and limitations Conclusions are formulated why the top down approach must result in improvization to escape from failure and why the participatory approach risks to end up into a mixed balance Special attention is given to the conditions and the prospects for the contractual or co management approach which has been introduced into Africa only recently Under certain conditions this approach seems rather promising

As Long as They Dont Bury Me Here Inge Tvedten,2011-12-29 An increasing number of poor Southern Africans live in poverty stricken urban slums or shantytowns Focusing on four shantytowns in the northern Namibian town of Oshakati this book analyses the coping strategies of the poorest sections of such populations The study is based on fieldwork conducted intermittently during a period of ten years It combines theories of political economic and cultural structuration and of the material and cultural basis for social relations of inclusion and exclusion as practise The poorest shanty dwellers are marginalised or excluded from vital urban and rural relationships and forced into social relations of poverty amongst themselves Having experienced long term processes of impoverishment the very poorest and most destitute in the shantytowns tend to give up improving their lives and act in ways that further undermine their position Expectations of Modernity James

Ferguson,1999-10-01 Once lauded as the wave of the African future Zambia s economic boom in the 1960s and early 1970s was fueled by the export of copper and other primary materials Since the mid 1970s however the urban economy has rapidly deteriorated leaving workers scrambling to get by Expectations of Modernity explores the social and cultural responses to this prolonged period of sharp economic decline Focusing on the experiences of mineworkers in the Copperbelt region James Ferguson traces the failure of standard narratives of urbanization and social change to make sense of the Copperbelt s recent history He instead develops alternative analytic tools appropriate for an ethnography of decline Ferguson shows how the Zambian copper workers understand their own experience of social cultural and economic advance and decline Ferguson s ethnographic study transports us into their lives the dynamics of their relations with family and friends as well as copper companies and government agencies Theoretically sophisticated and vividly written Expectations of Modernity will appeal not only to those interested in Africa today but to anyone contemplating the illusory successes of today s globalizing economy

Beyond Words Andrew Apter, 2007-07 Even within anthropology a discipline that strives to overcome misrepresentations of peoples and cultures colonialist depictions of the so called Dark Continent run deep The grand narratives tribal tropes distorted images and natural histories that forged the foundations of discourse about Africa remain firmly entrenched In Beyond Words Andrew Apter explores how anthropology can come to terms with the colonial library and begin to develop an ethnographic practice that transcends the politics of Africa's imperial past The way out of the colonial library Apter argues is by listening to critical discourses in Africa that reframe the social and political contexts in which they are embedded Apter develops a model of critical agency focusing on a variety of language genres in Africa situated in rituals that transform sociopolitical relations by self consciously deploying the power of language itself To break the cycle of Western illusions in discursive constructions of Africa he shows we must listen to African voices in ways that are culturally and locally informed In doing so Apter brings forth what promises to be a powerful and influential theory in contemporary anthropology
