Washington, D.C. Moorland Foundation, 1970 Crowded Out Nora Kenworthy, 2024-05-21 An eye opening investigation into charitable crowdfunding for healthcare in the United States and the consequences of allowing health care access to be decided by the digital crowd Over the past decade charitable crowdfunding has exploded in popularity across the globe Sites such as GoFundMe which now boasts a global community of over 100 million users have transformed the ways we seek and offer help When faced with crises especially medical ones Americans are turning to online platforms that promise to connect them to the charity of the crowd What does this new phenomenon reveal about the changing ways we seek and provide healthcare In Crowded Out Nora Kenworthy examines how charitable crowdfunding so guickly overtook public life where it is taking us and who gets left behind by this new platformed economy Although crowdfunding has become ubiquitous in our lives it is often misunderstood rather than a friendly free market powered by the kindness of strangers crowdfunding is powerfully reinforcing inequalities and changing the way Americans think about and access healthcare Drawing on extensive research and rich storytelling Crowded Out demonstrates how crowdfunding for health is fueled by and further reinforces financial and moral toxicities in market based healthcare systems It offers a unique and distressing look beneath the surface of some of the most popular charitable platforms and helps to foster thoughtful discussions of how we can better respond to healthcare crises both small and large Report of Expenses of State Offices, Boards and Commissions, and Fees and Money Collected for the Period ... are In the end she acknowledges that her younger self knew all along We are not these physical beings but spiritual beings whose true home is with God Planning, Development and Management of Sustainable Cities Tan Yigitcanlar, Md. (Liton) Kamruzzaman, 2019-04-30 The concept of sustainable urban development has been pushed to the forefront of policymaking and politics as the world wakes up to the impacts of climate change and the destructive effects of the Anthropocene Climate change has emerged to be one of the biggest challenges faced by our planet today threatening both built and natural systems with long term consequences which may be irreversible While there is a vast body of literature on sustainability and sustainable urban development there is currently limited focus on how to cohesively bring together the vital issues of the planning development and management of sustainable cities Moreover it has been widely stated that current practices and lifestyles cannot continue if we are to leave a healthy living planet to not only the next generation but also to the generations beyond The current global school strikes for climate action known as Fridays for Future evidences this The book advocates the view that the focus needs to rest on ways in which our cities and industries can become green enough to avoid urban ecocide This book fills a gap in the literature by bringing together issues related to the planning development and management of cities and focusing on a triple bottom line approach to sustainability
