Kephala A Late Neolithic Settlement And Cemetery Keos:

Kephala John E. Coleman, 1977 This is the first volume in the final publication of the University of Cincinnati's investigations on the island of Keos. It describes the excavation of a small site on the headland of Kephala about one kilometer north of the Bronze Age site of Ayia Irini. Remains of both a settlement and its cemetery were uncovered unusual in excavated Aegean sites earlier than the second millennium B.C. Although doubt is expressed about its exact date, the site definitely falls into the period between the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age when evidence of a hierarchical more developed society emerges. Occupied for less than a century by a community of fewer than 100 people, the settlement was probably abandoned around the end of the fourth millennium B.C. perhaps because a worsening climate could no longer support early agriculture on the barren rocks around the site. The report concludes with specialist studies on the different classes of artifact found including some of the earliest evidence for copper working in the Aegean. Kephala, 1977 Keos XI Lyvia Morgan, 2020-01-01 The iconography of Late Bronze Age wall paintings is presented in their social context within the Cycladic island of Kea and the wider Aegean world. Town, land and seascapes illustrate the community of this harbor. This book is lavishly illustrated with many color drawings, visualizations and photographs. The Neolithic Settlement Elizabeth C. Banks, 2016-01-28 This volume complements Lerna V: The Neolithic Pottery of Lerna by K.D. Vitelli and completes the primary publication of the results of the Neolithic remains retrieved during the excavations conducted by the American School of Classical Studies at Athens from 1952 through 1958 at Lerna in the Argolid. It presents the buildings and other features of the Neolithic settlement with listings of related pottery, minor objects, lithics, fauna and a catalogue of the minor objects. The study reveals a small agricultural community of Middle Neolithic date with houses of mud brick on stone foundations and various storage and thermal installations with a few burials scattered among them. A small Final Neolithic presence is documented by two graves and a group of ash pits of uncertain use. A catalogue of the minor objects includes mostly utilitarian objects of typical forms in stone, bone and terracotta and a few objects of decorative e.g. ear studs and symbolic significance, terracotta tangas and figurines. Appendixes include lists of walls and pottery lots, the inventory lot numbers of the lithics published elsewhere by J. Kozłowski et al. 1996 and a summary of the fauna by D.S. Reese that clarifies and amplifies the earlier faunal study by N.G. Gejvall. Early Cycladic Sculpture in Context Marisa Marthari, Colin Renfrew, Michael J. Boyd, 2017-01-04 The sculpture of the early bronze age Cyclades has been systematically studied since the time of Christos Tsountas at the end of the 19th century But that study has been hampered by the circumstance that so many of the subsequent finds come from unauthorized excavations where the archaeological context was irretrievably lost Largely for that reason there are still many problems surrounding the chronology the function and the meaning of Early Cycladic sculpture This lavishly illustrated and comprehensive reassessment sets out to rectify that situation by publishing finds which have been recovered in controlled excavations in recent years as well as earlier finds for which better documentation can now be provided Using the material from recent excavation projects and drawing on the papers presented at a symposium held in Athens in 2014 it is possible now to undertake a fresh overview of the entire body of sculpture from the Cycladic islands which has been found in secure archaeological contexts Beginning with early examples from Neolithic settlement sites and extending into a consideration of material found in later contexts the 35 chapters are divided into sections which examine sculpture from settlements cemeteries and the sanctuary at Kavos concluding with a discussion of material techniques and aspects of manufacture
