The

Collected Letters of Katherine Mansfield: Volume IV: 1920-1921 Katherine Mansfield, 1996-03-28 The letters in this volume cover the eighteen months Katherine Mansfield spent in England, France and Switzerland from May 1920 to the end of 1921. It is the period of her finest stories and when her life took its most decisive turn. There is a subtle but unmistakable change in her expectations, a new spiritual insistence that is both elusive and resolute. From her Chekhovian acceptance that they are cutting down the cherry trees, she derives a tough existential directness: the little boat enters the dark, fearful gulf. Nobody listens. The shadowy figure rows on. One ought to sit still and uncover one's eyes. There is a determined push, not always successful, towards a necessary honesty as much as to artistic achievement, while those qualities of her earlier correspondence remain undiminished: the precision and directness, the intelligence and wit, the dark incisiveness as much as sheer fun. Above all, perhaps, these letters comprise a record of very considerable courage against increasingly adverse odds as they approach the final years of her life. Katherine Mansfield and Literary Impressionism Julia van

Gunsteren, 2024-08-26 The Collected Letters of Katherine Mansfield Vincent O'Sullivan, Margaret Scott, 2008-06-05 The fifth and final volume of the Collected Letters of Katherine Mansfield covers the almost thirteen months during which her attention at first was firmly set on a last chance medical cure, then finally on something very different if death came to seem inevitable: how should one behave in the time that remained so one could truly say one lived. Mansfield's biographers like her friends have wondered at the seemingly extraordinary decision to ditch conventional medicine for the bizarre choice of Gurdjieff's Institute for the Harmonious Development of Man at Fontainebleau. These letters show the clarity of mind and will that led to that decision, the courage and distress in making it, and the gaiety even once it was made. She went against what her education, her husband and most of her friends would regard as reasonable as she opted to spend her last months with Russian migrants and a strange assortment of Gurdjieff disciples which she was not. But Fontainebleau gave her the space and the incentive to shake free from the intellectualism that she thought the malaise of her time as she worked at kitchen chores, took in the details of farm life, tried to learn Russian and attempted to reach total honesty with herself. If I were allowed one simple cry to God, she wrote in one of her last letters, that cry would be I want to be REAL. The Bloomsbury Handbook of Modernist Archives Jamie Callison, Matthew Feldman, Anna Svendsen, Erik Tønning, 2024-06-13 Providing a broad, definitive account of how the archival turn in humanities scholarship has shaped modernist studies, this book also functions as an ongoing practitioner's toolkit, including useful bibliographical resources and a guide to avenues for future work. Archival work in modernist studies has revolutionised the discipline in the past two decades, fuelled by innovative and ambitious scholarly editing projects and a growing interest in fresh types of archival sources and evidence that can re-contextualise modernist writing. Several theoretical trends have prompted this development, including the focus on compositional process within genetic manuscript studies, the emphasis on book history, little magazines and wider publishing contexts, and the emphasis on new material evidence and global and non-canonical authors and networks within the New Modernist Studies. This book provides a guide to the variety of new archival research that will point to fresh avenues and connect the methodologies and resources being developed across modernist studies Offering a variety of single author case studies on recent archival developments and editing projects including Samuel Beckett Hart Crane H D James Joyce Dorothy Richardson May Sinclair and Virginia Woolf it also offers a range of thematic essays that examine an array of underused sources as well as the challenges facing archival researchers of modernism Diaries and Journals of Literary Women from Fanny Burney to Virginia Woolf J. Simons, 1990-04-18 This highly original book investigates the part played by their personal writings in the lives of eight literary women Can private journals provide information about their authors public works Do diaries dramatise the development of an individual literary voice What was the special attraction of the diary form for women and why has it been so undervalued Drawing on current feminist critical approaches Judy Simons explores these and other questions in a stimulating and wide ranging study of women s diary writing which revises our entire way of thinking about this traditionally neglected genre and its particular implications for the woman writer
