Urban Housing: Housing costs, production efficiency, finance, manpower, land ,1968      Robotic Industrialization Thomas Bock,Thomas Linner,2015-08-10 In this volume concepts technologies and developments in the field of building component manufacturing based on concrete brick wood and steel as building materials and on large scale prefabrication delivering complex customized components and products are introduced and discussed Robotic industrialization refers to the transformation of parts and low level components into higher level components modules and finally building systems by highly mechanized automated or robot supported industrial settings in structured off site environments Components and modules are open building systems in modular building product structures that are delivered by suppliers to original equipment manufacturers such as for example large scale prefabrication companies or automated robotic on site factories In particular innovative large scale prefabrication companies have altered the building structures manufacturing processes and organizational structures significantly to be able to assemble in their factories high level components and modules from Tier 1 suppliers into customized buildings by heavily utilizing robotic technology in combination with automated logistics and production lines      The House as a Product A. Vogler,2016-03-10 Industrialized housing has been a common phenomenon in the building industry since the industrial revolution the casting of iron components enabled Victorian iron casters to prefabricate entire buildings and to export them to all British colonies It got a second boost from Modernist architects like Ludwig Mies van der Rohe Walter Gropius and Konrad Wachsmann and a third boost in the US when the soldiers came back from the Second World War in 1945 and wanted to buy a ready made house In the later decades of the 20th century composite prototypes were built Timber frame houses are extremely popular in low density areas worldwide For densely populated areas housing is now firmly attached to reinforced concrete The contracting industries have developed efficient building methods for the concrete structures on which separate systems of claddings are fixed to form a house However in the coming decades designers builders and scientists also have to keep the environment in mind working with a minimal amount of materials and for minimizing embodied energy and energy use In the coming age minimal embodied energy and low ecological footprints are renewed values that will be added to energy positive housing and that will have an influence on the building technology of the future This will lead to a reformation of the building vocabulary Other materials will have to be chosen and developed to function in building elements and components      Proceedings of the 5th International Conference on Construction, Architecture and Technosphere Safety Andrey A.
