Information Systems In A Management Structure:

Information systems in a management structure G.C. Nielen, 2012-12-06 Information technique as a profession is still so young that few opinions have settled The influence of the new possibilities in information technique on the functioning of organisations is so little understood that important questions like what is the potential of a computer in the firm will management ultimately be replaced by one man with a keyboard remain unanswered Many people are convinced that the impact of computers on the way we manage our enterprises will be enormous but they grope in the dark for qualitative and quantitative measures to describe it Naturally at this early point in the development the present applications of the computer appear incidental and offer no basis for a quest into its potential Moreover the present descriptions of management structures preclude an exact study of these structures let alone a quantitative treatment of any influence upon it In this study a number of exact concepts is developed to describe the typical grouped tasks as they occur in an organisation These concepts are characterised by the fact that the activity of management units can be described comprehensively in terms of data processing After all practically everything we do is data processing of some sort The picture of a management structure as it can be constructed with these concepts is ignoring the typically human elements like motivation and inspiration rather dull but it lends itself quite well for conclusions about computer application
