Bugliarello,Namik Kemal Pak,Zhores I. Alferov,John H. Moore,2012-12-06 A wide ranging review of the issues and opportunities in the transfer of technology between advanced industrial countries and the countries of the Former Soviet Union A major theme is the complex socio technological aspects of the process together with the related human factors and leadership requirements The book presents a very open exchange of views on the difficult obstacles that the countries of the Former Soviet Union need to overcome and the market economy countries of the west need to understand Issues of patents intellectual property personnel training reorganization of formerly centralized economies incentives information exchange and possible models for effective transfer are highlighted together with specific examples and discussions of the most up to date knowledge about technology transfer Audience All individuals and organizations concerned with the transfer of technology particularly those interested in a candid appraisal of the issues and opportunities for the transfer of technology and industrial and scientific cooperation between industrialized market economies and the countries of Eastern Europe and Central Asia      National Security And Technology Transfer Gary K. Bertsch,2019-02-22 The deterioration of detente in the wake of the ongoing Soviet arms build up has sharply focused the East West trade debate on the question of advanced technology transfer from the United States and its allies to the Soviet bloc The transfer and acquisition of high technology have become central ingredients in super power relations and are key elements of any national security policy President Reagan among others has questioned the wisdom of the policies of the 1960s and early 1970s when trade with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe expanded rapidly At recent industrial nation summits conferees of Western countries agreed to high level review of their East West technology trade policies But in light of the apparent West European commitment to continue and expand trade with the East as exemplified by the Siberian gas pipeline project and the growing U S opposition to such technology transfer divisions between U S and Western trade policies toward the East are likely to become increasingly acute in the years ahead Professors Bertsch and McIntyre have selected comprehensive and representative articles to examine the question of technology transfer from a variety of perspectives political economic and military emphasizing both the U S and the Western allies points of view and offering insights into the complex issues raised by the strategic dimensions of East West trade

Gummett,Mikhail Boutoussov,Janos Farkas,Arie Rip,2012-12-06 Countries establish defence industries for various reasons Chief among these are usually a concern with national security and a desire to be as independent as possible in the supply of the armaments which they believe they need But defence industries are different from most other industries Their customer is governments Their product is intended to safeguard the most vital interests of the state The effectiveness of these products in the real rather than the experimental sense is not normally tested at the time of purchase If or when it is tested many other factors such as the quality of political and military leadership enter into the equation so complicating judgments about the quality of the armaments and about the reliability of the promises made by the manufacturers All of these features make the defence sector an unusually political industrial sector This has been true in both the command economies of the former Soviet Union and its satellites and in the market or mixed economies of the west In both cases to speak only a little over generally the defence sector has been particularly privileged and particularly protected from the usual economic vicissitudes In both cases too its centrality to the perceived vital interests of the state has given it an unusual degree of political access and support

Controlling East-West Trade and Technology Transfer Gary K. Bertsch,1988 Western efforts to control trade and technological relations with communist countries affect many interests and political groups in both Eastern and Western blocs Although there is general agreement within the Western alliance that government imposed controls are necessary to prevent material having military importance from falling in the hands of the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies there is considerable controversy over the specifics the exact definition of militarily significant material how the Western nations should administer controls the implications of glasnost and other matters

MARKETING STRATEGY 6th edition emphasizes teaching students to think and act like marketers. It presents strategy from a perspective that guides strategic marketing management in the social economic and technological arenas in which businesses function today, helping students develop a customer oriented market strategy and market plan. Its practical approach to analyzing planning and implementing marketing strategies is based on the creative process involved in applying marketing concepts to the development and implementation of marketing strategy. An emphasis on critical thinking enables students to understand the essence of how marketing decisions fit together to create a coherent strategy. Well grounded in developing and executing a marketing plan, the text offers a complete planning framework, thorough marketing plan worksheets, and a comprehensive marketing plan example for students to follow.
