Surgenor, 2008-12-16 The public education system has the capacity to slowly and quietly resist all attempts at systemic change or reform this resistance has become even more tangible and definable over the past fifteen years as reforms to bring schools up to date are attempted and blocked by Industrial Age understandings driven by corporate political and financial needs Surgenor identifies the intellectual emotional and organizational factors that keep North American education locked within the Industrial Age paradigm Exploring the differences between the Industrial Age and Information Age paradigms The Gated Society demonstrates how those differences would impact the practice form and function of education systems Critical Pedagogy Primer Joe L. Himes,2025-05-01 A study of the deep historical roots of Catholic Social Teaching What is often neglected in studies of Catholic Social Teaching CST is the underlying theology that it presumes especially the biblical and patristic roots that have forged a broader tradition of social thought than is found in the more recent writings of the Catholic hierarchy Sacred and Social fills this gap by providing an extended analysis of the Catholic understanding of the human person especially the beliefs in human dignity and humanity s essentially social nature Himes argues that before the documents of the modern papacy a rich tradition already shaped and informed the Catholic lens on social reality He illustrates the theological basis for the ethical commitments of CST with the fundamental theological themes creation incarnation Trinity Body of Christ that gave rise to the Catholic social imagination Senior Leadership Teams and the Agile Organization Stephen J. Colonial Space J.K. Noyes, 2012-10-12. First Published in 1992. This book is about space of a colony and how it was produced. It began as a study of the literature of the German colony of South West Africa between the years 1884 and 1915. The author's aim is to demonstrate the active role which literature had played in structuring the experience of the colony. If it could be shown that literature not only describes but also helps to structure the forms of experience, then it would follow that it also plays an important role in structuring the experience of colonization and hence the form of the colony itself. From the outset, therefore, the study was concerned with a number of issues centering around colonization, representation, experience, and social form, where spatiality is the concept which allows us to understand how these various aspects of colonialism interrelate.

Professional Education, Capabilities and the Public Good Melanie Walker, Monica McLean, 2013-10-01. This book innovatively explores how universities might be engines of reform and be directed towards social change. Using rich case studies drawn from South African research, the book comprehensively provides a myriad of new perspectives on what constitutes a set of appropriate public good professional capabilities that will translate successfully into contributions to human development. It challenges universities to produce professionals who have the knowledge, skills, and values to improve the lives of people living in poverty in urban and rural settings. It covers issues such as Conceptualising Public Good, Professionalism, Global Issues, and Professional Education. South African Debates about Higher Education, Institutional conditions, and professional education arrangements. Social Constraints on educating ethically aware public professionals. By drawing on an approach that focuses on differing public good professional capabilities in five professions, this book produces a crucial new framework for the preparation of professionals relevant to the global study of higher education policy. It expands higher education's contribution to global social justice beyond a concern with human capital, administering a challenge to higher education internationally to address human development in the 21st century. This book will be of great interest to all scholars of higher education involved in higher education studies, comparative education and development studies. It will also prove valuable to policy makers, higher education leaders and lecturers, and graduate professionals in diverse organizations.
