Hebrew Scriptures Responding To Gods Call:

Hebrew Scriptures James Hogan, 1988 Hebrew Scriptures Native Council of Nova Scotia. Micmac Language Program, 1989 The Philosophy of Hebrew Scripture Yoram Hazony, 2012-07-30 This book offers a new framework for reading the Bible as a work of reason A Dictionary of the Jewish-Christian Dialogue Leon Klenicki, Geoffrey Wigoder, 1995 This is an invaluable aid in helping readers become better acquainted with key issues involved in the relationship between Judaism and Christianity It brings together significant discussions of major theological and religious topics that are an integral part of the faith dialogue between Jews and Christians Each topic is treated in two separate essays one by a Christian scholar the other by a Jewish scholar and points of agreement and decisive differences stand out clearly BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Listening for God's Call Susan H. Jones, 2014-11-24 The Learning Church series offers a range of short and accessible introductions on some of the key themes in Christian theology and discipleship This book discusses the basic Christian belief that God has a purpose and plan for the World and that God calls us to work with God to bring that purpose and plan to fruition In contemporary Christian thinking God's call is to discipleship and ministry This book is designed to help readers grasp the theology of call and of vocation and to discern God's call to them Responding to God's Call Roslyn A. Karaban, Rosalyn A. Karaban, 1998 This is a book about discernment tuning in and listening to God's call prayerfully reflecting on that call clarifying what that call is and responding to what you feel and hear People involved in all sorts of ministry and those who would like to be involved but find their calling in discord with the position of the Church will find this book a valuable tool in determining what is of God and what is not and how to set their own direction The book includes a series of personal stories from both the author and others to help illustrate the concepts A unique feature of this process is that it can involve loss the loss of who you are today in order to become what is your calling Dr Karaban carefully shows how this process of loss closely resembles the grieving process and helps readers mourn and move through the losses to become what God and you want Paul at the Crossroads of Cultures Kathy Ehrensperger, 2013-09-12 Based on recent studies in intercultural communication Kathy Ehrensperger applies the paradigm of multilingualism which includes the recognition of cultural distinctiveness to the study of Paul Paul's role as apostle to the nations is seen as the role of a go between as that of cultural translator This role requires that he is fully embedded in his own tradition but must also be able to appreciate and understand aspects of gentile culture Paul is viewed as involved in a process in which the meaning of the Christ event is being negotiated in the space between cultures with their diverse cultural coding systems and cultural encyclopaedias It is argued that this is not a process of imposing Jewish culture on gentiles at the expense of gentile identity nor is it a process of eradication of Jewish identity Rather Paul's theologizing in the space between implies the task of negotiating the meaning of the Christ event in relation to and in appreciation of both Jewish and gentile identity A Jewish Reply to Christian Evangelists Lewis Alexander

Hart,1906 Claiming Our Callings Kaethe Schwehn,L. DeAne Lagerquist,2014-06-06 Kaethe Schwehn and L DeAne Lagerquist offer perspectives from fourteen professors at St Olaf College on the value of vocation showing how a focus on one s calling rather than on success or credentials paves the way for the civic good sought by defenders of liberal arts education The essays in this volume exemplify the reflective practices at the heart of liberal arts for faculty and students alike Martin E Marty once said that The vocation of St Olaf is vocation and the contributors draw on their experiences teaching in a range of departments from biology and economics to history and religion to reflect on both their calling as professors and their practices for fostering students ability to identify their own vocations These scholars varied notions of how vocation is best understood and cultivated reveal the differing religious commitments and pedagogical practices present within their college community Together they demonstrate how the purposes of their own lives intersect creatively with the purposes of higher education and the needs of their students and the world

A God Like No Other: Depaganizing the God of the Hebrew Bible David A. Brondos, 2024-07-15 For centuries scholars and interpreters of the Hebrew Scriptures or Old Testament have read those Scriptures as if they spoke of a God whose desires concerns and interests were essentially no different than those of the other gods of antiquity known to us Like those gods what the God of Israel supposedly sought above all else was the honor worship and obedience of human beings and their submission to his will as his faithful and devoted servants While he undoubtedly demanded the practice of what was good right and merciful among his people in a way that set him apart from other gods ultimately he did so for his own sake in order to bring about in them the type of behavior that pleased him and compel them to live in conformity with his justice holiness and righteousness Those who sought to enjoy his blessings and avoid his fierce wrath and punishments had no choice but to strive to keep him content by observing all that he had commanded and making atonement for the sins and offenses they committed by offering him the sacrifices that appeased him Although he loved his people deeply his righteous and holy nature placed limits on that love and prevented him from showing them his favor unless the demands of his nature were satisfied When we abandon such an understanding of the God of Israel and instead read the Hebrew Bible on its own terms in order to grasp the logic underlying its narratives however a very different portrait of God emerges The God of whom the biblical texts speak is a God who desires nothing but the good for all those whom he has created and refuses to back down from his efforts to bring them to live in ways that will allow them to enjoy the wholeness and well being he desires for all when they insist on filling their lives with injustice suffering and violence When he demands that they obey all that he has commanded by practicing justice and compassion and avoiding behaviors that do them harm he does so not for his sake but for theirs If he jealously refuses to let his people serve and worship other gods it is only because those gods bring death and destruction rather than the life that is found in him alone While at times he must himself resort to violence and even bring down evil on human beings in order to put a stop to oppression and injustice he does so only because his passionate and unbending commitment to the well being of all of the families of the earth together with his beloved people Israel will not allow him to hold back or relent in his efforts to save them not from him but from themselves Christian and Jewish readers alike will find in the present volume a God who is very different from the God they have been taught to encounter previously in the biblical texts a God whose ultimate concern is not for his own glory honor or worship or for the demands of a righteous and holy nature that holds him captive but for the healing wholeness and well being of all of his creatures Such an understanding of God not only calls into question traditional interpretations of the Hebrew Bible but also lays the basis for a fresh reading of the many difficult passages that have long challenged biblical interpreters due to the violent and troubling image of God that they convey

Claiming the Call to Preach Donna Giver-Johnston, 2021-05-25 Few debates divide the contemporary church more than the issue of call The question of who can be called to preach segregates denominations divides people within churches and undermines its public witness Yet curiously little homiletic attention has been paid to the issue of call Because the practice of call has not been subjected to critical inquiry it has taken on power Power lies hidden in the crevices of the question of who can be called to preach power lies in the institutional narrative and approved stories of call power lies in the discordant debates equally in the stifling silence Claiming the Call to Preach critically examines the dominant historical narrative that overtly or covertly has exercised its power to keep women from preaching Donna Giver Johnston here recovers the histories of four notable female preaching pioneers who affected change in the religious landscape of nineteenth century America Jarena Lee Frances Willard Louisa Woosley and Florence Spearing Randolph These women diverse in religion race class and culture each told their story of call in distinctive ways that articulated strong and effective rhetorical arguments for ecclesiastical sanction to give them a place in the pulpit Recovering their rhetorical witness helps to fill in the gaps in the history of preaching in America contribute to research and pedagogies in the field of homiletics and provide today's women and all candidates for ministry with different theological models and narrative strategies by which to effectively interpret and claim their calls to preach These women who spoke truth to power help us reimagine a church today that no longer questions the legitimacy of one's call to preach but endorses previously silenced voices and is therefore strengthened by women's voices from the pulpit

Response to the Other Robert P. Vande Kappelle, 2020-10-20 Human beings seek meaning and purpose To do so we tell stories about the past which we call history and stories about what will occur in the future constructed from memory and imagination History is not a subject we study but one we live History is our medium as water is to fish No period of antiquity is more informative and influential for Western civilization than the Greco Roman the period from the time of Alexander the Great to the fall of the Roman Empire an age that saw the emergence of Judaism and Christianity twin traditions shaped against the background of pagan dominance The meeting between Jew and Greek Christian and pagan revolutionized the ancient world It represented a crucial moment in the history of Western society when politics economics culture and religion took a new turn In time these separate streams mingled and merged forming the single and ever widening current that gave birth to modernity Moving against the stream of religious exclusivism this book does not seek to further the cause of one particular religious perspective but rather to gain insight on how ancient pagans Jews and Christians interacted with one another This study advances contemporary attempts at dialogue and cooperation enabling people of differing agendas to focus their energy on finding solutions to problems plaguing our planet Response to the Other has much to offer specialists and non specialists alike This work can be used as a study guide the questions at the end of each chapter suitable for individual or group use
