Dynamic Process Methodology in the Social and Developmental Sciences Jaan Valsiner, Peter C. M. Molenaar, Maria C.D.P. Lyra, Nandita Chaudhary, 2009-07-09 All psychological processes like biological and social ones are dynamic Phenomena of nature society and the human psyche are context bound constantly changing and variable This feature of reality is often not recognized in the social sciences where we operate with averaged data and with homogeneous stereotypes and consider our consistency to be the cornerstone of rational being Yet we are all inconsistent in our actions within a day or from one day to the next and much of such inconsistency is of positive value for our survival and development Our inconsistent behaviors and thoughts may appear chaotic yet there is generality within this highly variable dynamic The task of scientific methodologies qualitative and quantitative is to find out what that generality is It is the aim of this handbook to bring into one framework various directions of construction of methodology of the dynamic processes that exist in the social sciences at the beginning of the 21st century This handbook is set up to bring together pertinent methodological scholarship from all over the world and equally from the quantitative and qualitative orientations to methodology In addition to consolidating the pertinent knowledge base for the purposes of its further growth this book serves the major educational role of bringing practitioners students researchers and professionals interested in applications the state of the art know how about how to think about extracting evidence from single cases and about the formal mathematical statistical tools to use for these purposes

Representing Development David Carre, Jaan Valsiner, Stefan Hampl, 2016-07-15 Representing Development presents the different social representations that have formed the idea of development in Western thinking over the past three centuries Offering an acute perspective on the current state of developmental science and providing constructive insights into future pathways the book draws together twelve contributors with a variety of multidisciplinary and international perspectives to focus upon development in fields including biology psychology and sociology Chapters and commentaries in this volume present a variety of perspectives surrounding social representation and development addressing their contemporary enactments and reflecting on future theoretical and empirical directions The first section of the book provides an historical account of early representations of development that having come from life science has shaped the way in which developmental science has approached development Section two focuses upon the contemporary issues of developmental psychology neuroscience and developmental science at large The final section offers a series of commentaries pointing to the questions opened by the previous chapters looking to outline the future lines of developmental thinking This book will be of particular interest to child psychologists educational psychologists and sociologists or historians of science as well as academics and students interested in developmental and life sciences

Emotional Development and Families Julie Hakim-Larson, 2017-09-30 This lively and engaging book conducts a thorough review of the current research literature in developmental psychology and socialisation and then clearly links theory to practical applications in both clinical and everyday situations Life's first important lessons on how to handle emotions often emerge early on within family relationships forming the foundation for emotional development over the life span Couples siblings parents and extended family members all have profound influences on each other's emotional lives as well as on the lives of the children they are socialising Students can expect to learn a wide range of relevant topics bringing together theory practice and research in a comprehensive and lucid way Covering the main topics of emotional development this textbook reviews contemporary research and makes recommendations for how students might practically use the findings in their future studies or in practice Filled with a wealth of resources and suggestions for further reading this book is an ideal supplementary text suitable for students taking undergraduate and postgraduate courses on developmental psychology family psychology and child clinical psychology This book may also be helpful for those taking undergraduate and postgraduate courses on social work counselling education studies and family studies

The Moonlight Doctor Jaan Valsiner, 2024-03-22 This is the very first authoritative book on the role of Carl Gustav Carus 1789 1869 in the history of psychology Carus was the initiator of the notions of development unconscious and archetype in psychology The book emphasizes the interdisciplinary focus of Carus work as it was based on the literature and art of his time and is closely related with medicine and Naturphilosophie The readership of the book will get access to the life course of a key figure of science of the 19th century

The Observation of Human Systems Joshua W. Clegg, 2017-12-02 Contemporary mainstream psychology has moved toward methodological specificity bounded by instrumental experimentalism. However, this institutional reduction of sanctioned methods has not been fully embraced by all social scientists nor even by all experimental psychologists. The social sciences are rife with examples of practicing empirical scientists disaffected with the reductionism and atomism of traditional experimentalism. The empirical theory and practice of four of these disaffected social scientists, Lev Vygotsky, James Baldwin, James Gibson, and Kurt Lewin, is explored in this volume. Each of the scientists considered here argued for a rigorously empirical method while still maintaining a clear anti-reductionist stance. They justified their disaffection with the dominant psychological paradigms of their respective eras in terms of a fidelity to their phenomena of study, a fidelity they believed would be compromised by radical reductionism and ontological atomism. The authors in this collection explore the theory and practice of these eminent researchers and from it find inspiration for contemporary social science. The primary argument running through these analyses is that the social sciences should take seriously the notion of holistic empirical investigation. This means, among other things, re-establishing the indissoluble ties between theory, method, and procedure and resisting the manualization of research procedures. It also means developing theories of relations and not simply of elemental properties. Such theories would concern particular units, fields, or systems of relations and not be reduced to or interpreted in the terms of other systems. Finally, a holistic social science requires integration of the active agent into theory, method, and procedure, an integration that points toward both participatory and emancipatory methods.

Appraising the Human Developmental Sciences Gary W. Ladd, 2007-04-05 As a result, this volume will appeal to researchers and professionals alike.

Exploring the Complexities of Human Action Catherine Raeff, 2020-05-19 Exploring the Complexities of Human Action offers a bold theoretical framework for thinking systematically and integratively about what people do as they go about their lives. Raeff sets the stage for conceptualizing human action by first constructively questioning some conventional practices and assumptions in psychology, such as fragmenting, aggregating, and objectifying. She then articulates an alternative system's conceptualization of action that emphasizes multiple and interrelated processes and characterizes human action in terms of the complexities of holism, dynamics, variability, and multi-causality. The book also applies this theoretical framework to varied human issues, including mind-body connections, art, diversity, extremism, and freedom. This approach provides a vision of humanity that promotes complex and empathic understanding of human beings that can bring people together to pursue common goals.

Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science, Theory and Method, 2015-03-31 The essential reference for human development theory, updated and reconceptualized. The Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science, a four-volume reference, is the field-defining work to which all others are compared. First published in 1946 and now in its Seventh Edition, the Handbook has long been considered the definitive guide to the field of developmental science. Volume 1, Theory and Method, presents a rich mix of classic and contemporary theoretical perspectives but the dominant views throughout are marked by an emphasis on the dynamic interplay of all facets of the developmental system across the life span incorporating the range of biological cognitive emotional social cultural and ecological levels of analysis Examples of the theoretical approaches discussed in the volume include those pertinent to human evolution self regulation the development of dynamic skills and positive youth development The research methodological and applied implications of the theoretical models discussed in the volume are presented Understand the contributions of biology person and context to development within the embodied ecological system Discover the relations among individual the social world culture and history that constitute human development Examine the methods of dynamic developmental research Learn person oriented methodological approaches to assessing developmental change The scholarship within this volume and as well across the four volumes of this edition illustrate that developmental science is in the midst of a very exciting period There is a paradigm shift that involves increasingly greater understanding of how to describe explain and optimize the course of human life for diverse individuals living within diverse contexts This Handbook is the definitive reference for educators policy makers researchers students and practitioners in human development psychology sociology anthropology and neuroscience
