J. Wilkinson,Eleanor Barbanes Wilkinson,2016-05-31 The city of Carchemish in the valley of the Euphrates river can be regarded as one of the iconic sites in the Middle East a mound complex known both for its own intrinsic qualities as the seat of later Hittite power and Neo Hittite kings but also because its history of excavations included well known historical figures such as Leonard Woolley and T E Lawrence However because of its location within the military zone of the Turkish Syrian border the site itself has been inaccessible to archaeologists for more than 90 years Carchemish in Context summarises the results of regional investigations conducted within the Land of Carchemish Project in Syria as well as other archaeological surveys in the region in order to provide a regional historical and archaeological context for the development of the city A synthesis of the history of Carchemish is presented and a regional overview of the Land of Carchemish as it is defined by archaeological features and key historical references through to the early Iron Age Insightful snapshots of the dynamics of an ancient state are revealed which can now be seen to have fluctuated dramatically in size throughout 700 800 years in part depending upon the power of the king of Carchemish or the aggressions of external powers The results from the Project provide an overview of the main trends of settlement in the region over 8000 years using a combination of survey databases to both north and south of the Syrian Turkish border and with a focus on the earlier phases of settlement from the Neolithic until the end of the Bronze Age when Carchemish became an outpost of the Hittite empire The Iron Age is a period blessed by numerous historical records some of which can be traced in the modern landscape Further chapters explore site specific aspects of the regional archaeology including a series of important sites on the Sajur river some of which were positioned along the main campaign routes of the Assyrian kings The close relationship between the nearby Early Bronze Age site of Tell Jerablus Tahtani and Carchemish are examined and the results from the 40 ha Carchemish Outer Town survey described providing important new data sources regarding the layout defenses and dates of occupation of this significant part of the city The Classical Roman Byzantine and Early Islamic occupations are also discussed in relation to what is known of occupation in the surrounding region

Life on the Watershed Eva Kaptijn, 2009 The scarcity of water is a major problem in many parts of the Near East today and has been so in the past To survive in such a region people should be able to structurally attain more water than rainfall alone can supply The archaeology of this area should not only identify when people inhabited such a region and what the character of this habitation was but also how people were able to survive in such a region and why they chose to live there in the first place In this book these questions have been studied for the Zerqa Triangle a region in the middle Jordan Valley around Tell Deir Alla Jordan By means of a detailed pedestrian archaeological survey the intensity of habitation of the region from the Neolithic to early modern periods is investigated Efforts have been undertaken to reconstruct the agricultural practices in the various periods and simultaneously the means by which the different communities were able to practice agriculture in other words how did they irrigate the land By focussing on the different social responses of communities conclusions have been drawn on how and why people managed to create a living in this arid but potentially very fertile region This book not only contributes to the ongoing discussion of the archaeology of marginal areas but also provides a huge amount of new data on the archaeology of the Jordan Valley both in the form of newly discovered settlement sites from several different periods as well as remains from several more inconspicuous types of human activity present in the countryside
