Making Representations Moira G. Simpson, 2012-12-06 Drawing upon material from Britain Canada the United States Australia and New Zealand Making Representations explores the ways in which museums and anthropologists are responding to pressures in the field by developing new policies and practices and forging new relationships with communities Simpson examines the increasing number of museums and cultural centres being established by indigenous and immigrant communities as they take control of the interpretive process and challenge the traditional role of the museum Museum studies students and museum professionals will all find this a stimulating and valuable read Reframing the Ethnographic Museum Michael Rowlands, Nick Stanley, Graeme Were, 2025-03-20 Since the later part of the twentieth century ethnographic museums have come under increasing scrutiny and many have reflected on and changed their presentation as they questioned collections so often made by colonial officials and explorers Now is a good time to explore whether new developments in display and cultural politics provide a viable future for ethnographic museums In particular policies for restitution by colonial era institutions create a changed landscape for ethnographic display both in the countries from which they originate and in former colonising states Reframing the Ethnographic Museum presents a wide range of cultural settings across the world where ethnographic displays have appeared in their local circumstances Non European museum strategies raise new problems but also new solutions Nationalism has been especially significant in museology in Asia and in Africa new museum objectives have emerged They share a problematic future in a digital age when the aura of artefacts is challenged by digital repositories and a public less willing to travel to visit original objects Authors in this book grapple with the new complexities facing them as curators in the contemporary world Praise for Reframing the Ethnographic Museum Ethnographic museums have been controversial and have been undergoing re invention for decades They are considered illegitimate but have renewed prominence as highly visible contact zones and theatres of cross cultural mediation This book reviews and explores the sector with insight and nuance reporting the successes and failures of key curatorial projects both within Europe and across the Global South Nicholas Thomas University of Cambridge Raw Histories Elizabeth Edwards, 2021-01-07 Photographs have had an integral and complex role in many anthropological contexts from fieldwork to museum exhibitions This book explores how approaching anthropological photographs as history can offer both theoretical and empirical insights into these roles Photographs are thought to make problematic history because of their ambiguity and rawness In short they have too many meanings The author refutes this prejudice by exploring through a series of case studies precisely the potential of this raw quality to open up new perspectives Taking the nature of photography as her starting point the author argues that photographs are not merely pictures of things but are part of a dynamic and fluid historical dialogue which is active not only in the creation of the photograph but in its subsequent social biography in archive and museum spaces past and present In this context the book challenges any uniform view of anthropological photography and its resulting archives Drawing on a variety of examples largely from the Pacific the book demonstrates how close readings of photographs reveal not only western agendas but also many layers of differing historical and cross cultural experiences That is photographs can spring leaks to show an alternative viewpoint These themes are developed further by examining the dynamics of photographs and issues around them as used by contemporary artists and curators and presented to an increasingly varied public This book convincingly demonstrates photographs potential to articulate histories other than those of their immediate appearances a potential that can no longer be neglected by scholars and institutions Curatopia Philipp Schorch, Conal McCarthy, 2018-11-30 What is the future of curatorship Is there a vision for an ideal model a curatopia whether in the form of a utopia or dystopia Or is there a plurality of approaches amounting to a curatorial heterotopia This pioneering volume addresses these questions by considering the current state of curatorship It reviews the different models and approaches operating in museums galleries and cultural organisations around the world and discusses emerging concerns challenges and opportunities The collection explores the ways in which the mutual asymmetrical relations underpinning global scientific entanglements of the past can be transformed into more reciprocal symmetrical forms of cross cultural curatorship in the present arguing that this is the most effective way for curatorial practice to remain meaningful International in scope the volume covers three regions Europe North America and the Pacific Made to Be Seen Marcus Banks, Jay Ruby, 2011-07-15 Made to be Seen brings together leading scholars of visual anthropology to examine the historical development of this multifaceted and growing field Expanding the definition of visual anthropology beyond more limited notions the contributors to Made to be Seen reflect on the role of the visual in all areas of life Different essays critically examine a range of topics art dress and body adornment photography the built environment digital forms of visual anthropology indigenous media the body as a cultural phenomenon the relationship between experimental and ethnographic film and more The first attempt to present a comprehensive overview of the many aspects of an anthropological approach to the study of visual and pictorial culture Made to be Seen will be the standard reference on the subject for years to come Students and scholars in anthropology sociology visual studies and cultural studies will greatly benefit from this pioneering look at the way the visual is inextricably threaded through most if not all areas of human activity Heritage, Museums and Galleries Gerard Corsane,2005 This reader provides a starting point and introductory resource for anyone wishing to engage with certain key issues relating to the heritage museums and galleries sector Globalizing Contemporary Art Lotte Philipsen,2010-10-31 Today contemporary art is a global phenomenon Biennales museums art fairs galleries auction houses academies and audiences for contemporary visual art are all institutions whose presence on a global scale has widened tremendously during the past two decades Thus by including contemporary art from non Western regions these traditional Western art institutions have not only broadened their scope to a greater extent but have also been challenged themselves by the new cultural economic and media world order of globalization How contemporary art is made international is the subject of this book tracing as it does developments during the past two decades while focusing particularly on the mechanisms of globality which are at work in the art world today The book critically investigates fundamental questions like What is New Internationalism in contemporary art and how it affected the art world How does New Internationalism relate to concepts like ethnicity aesthetics standard art history and new media And how is New Internationalism rather paradoxically furthered to a greater extent by global capitalism than it is by seemingly progressive art projects Museums and the Shaping of Knowledge Eileen Hooper Greenhill,1992-01-23 Museums have been active in shaping knowledge over the last six hundred years Yet what is their function within today s society At the present time when funding is becoming increasingly scarce difficult questions are being asked about the justification of museums Museums and the Shaping of Knowledge presents a critical survey of major changes in current assumptions about the nature of museums Through the examination of case studies Eileen Hooper Greenhill reveals a variety of different roles for museums in the production and shaping of knowledge Today museums are once again organising their spaces and collections to present themselves as environments for experimental and self directed learning Atlas of Vernacular Architecture of the World Marcel Vellinga,Paul Oliver,Alexander Bridge,2024-11-01 The first world atlas ever compiled on vernacular architecture this comprehensive work illustrates the variety and ingenuity of the world s vernacular building traditions from a multi disciplinary cross cultural and comparative approach using over sixty world and regional maps Mapping such diverse aspects as materials and resources technologies structural systems symbolism forms and service systems on a cross cultural and comparative basis the Atlas of Vernacular Architecture of the World reveals the distribution diversity and relationships of the world s vernacular building traditions Indicating geographical patterns developments lacunae and anomalies it gives rise to new insights and understandings stimulating new hypotheses questions and research efforts Augmenting the award winning Encyclopedia of
