High Noon In The Automotive Industry:

High Noon in the Automotive Industry Helmut Becker, 2006-02-10 This book was born from curiosity To begin with it was the curiosity of an economist who studied in the 60 s in an environment which has subsequently developed from national into global economics Who has to recognize that politicians scholars and large segments of society oblivious to supranational authorities and economic globalization forces continue to labour under the notion that they are still fully autonomous and sovereign when shaping national economic policy And pretend as though their own national state were still the master in its own house that despite unbridled market economics could continue to dictate to the economy and companies how to live and in which rooms All that has become fiction The laws of globalization diminish the manoeuvring space for shaping national economic policy Even if many folks today don't want to hear it The issue is no longer achieving what is socially politically desirable for the own society but rather the optimal adaptation of society and social benefits to the politically practicable

Political and Economic Change in the Automobile Industry Claudio Cosentino, 2009-10-20 Inhaltsangabe Definition of problem This paper deals with the future strategic orientation of manufacturers of luxury cars The sociological political ecological technological and economic environmental factors and their influence on corporate orientation will be highlighted and analysed This fundamental problem for car niche brands is investigated through the example of Maserati an upmarket brand which has become like no other both a trendsetter and a victim of the expectations of its patrons and customers and is now struggling for market shares together with its parent company This paper will initially highlight influencing factors and also the need for efficiency in manufacture and production as well as the new tasks and challenges arising from legislation Macroeconomic factors such as the shrinking purchasing power in developed countries like the U S due to inflation and stagflation worries which result from the daily rise in raw material prices exert just as great an influence on car sales figures as the growing number of super rich in Third World countries The question concerning the shift of target markets arises Do the raw materials inhibit sales for these products Or is the clientele immune What innovations are demanded and are they compatible with the attributes associated with super sports cars and luxury cars Ferrari Maserati Lamborghini and even Aston Martin are manufacturers who boast that they make cars with horrendous power ratings fuel consumption and emission levels Their customers love the sound of the engines comparable as they are with aircraft engines They produce engines with eight ten or even twelve cylinders epitomising power but at the same time are more suitable for the race track than for the road if one compares their figures with those of classic mass market cars The customers rate performance and sound higher than fuel consumption per litre and environmental awareness These are geared to basic male instincts Beauty of form brute force and eroticism are mostly described in terms of beautiful women or sins or mythological mental attributes The marketing is concerned with lifestyle passion and the child in people the Freudian id A man simply wants to own these mighty projectiles forget common sense The owner of such a car is according to this car's marketing image the one who has created it He is successful healthy rich and good looking A majority of the world s male      Understanding National Culture and Ethics in Organizations Iulian Warter,Liviu Warter,2020-09-30 Understanding National Culture and Ethics in Organisations A Study of Eastern and Central Europe reveals some leading questions in business research linking ethics and national culture with a particular emphasis on Eastern European countries      The Political Economy of Automotive Industrialization in East Asia Richard F. Energy, the Modern State, and the American World System George A. Gonzalez,2018-03-01 In this provocative and original study George A Gonzalez argues that the relationship between energy and the state as well as global politics has become more and more deeply intertwined reaching something of a crescendo with the global hegemony of Pax Americana in the twentieth and early twenty first centuries He presents a clear and concise case for viewing the modern state as the collaborative and affirmative union of capitalism and political authority in a setting where energy resources be it wind coal or oil provide the basis for the relatively inexpensive projection of political power More broadly energy serves as the foundation of the modern economy and because of this a prime function of the modern state is ensuring access to cheap reliable sources to power and grow the economy Historically energy is more of a zero sum resource than capital markets labor or technology and thus is a greater source of geopolitical tension and violence Energy politics and by extension international politics is moreover shaped by domestic corporate elites especially those within the United States Energy and Empire George A. Gonzalez,2012-09-07 What set the United States on the path to developing commercial nuclear energy in the 1950s and what led to the seeming demise of that industry in the late 1970s Why in spite of the depletion of fossil fuels and the obvious dangers of global warming has the United States moved so slowly toward adopting alternatives In Energy and Empire George A Gonzalez presents a clear and concise argument demonstrating that economic elites tied their advocacy of the nuclear energy option to post 1945 American foreign policy goals At the same time these elites opposed government support for other forms of energy such as solar that cannot be dominated by one nation While researchers have blamed safety concerns and other factors as helping to arrest the expansion of domestic nuclear power plant construction Gonzalez points to an entirely different set of motivations stemming from the loss of America s domination control of the enrichment of nuclear fuel Once foreign countries could enrich their own fuel civilian nuclear power ceased to be a lever the United States could use to economically politically dominate other nations Instead it became a major concern relating to nuclear weapons proliferation

American Empire and the Canadian Oil Sands George A. Gonzalez,2016-04-08 Throughout the US oil and gas shale are being hydrofracked to produce petroleum and natural gas Oil or tar sands from Canada is being processed thereby generating large amounts of crude This book places the unconventional fossil fuels revolution that is taking place in North America within the context of great power politics Energy and the Politics of the North Atlantic George A.
