station Stardust is a series of literary essays defining Bruce Serafin's world. The teenage Serafin is a captivating figure freshly arrived from the United States and eager to immerse himself in the particular delights of a still largely frontier era Vancouver. As a young man enrolled at SFU, he refuses the perm pressed upon him in a Chinatown barber shop and eavesdrops on his rowdy neighbours in a Powell Street apartment house. Working in the post office, Serafin discovers Michel Tremblay's The Fat Woman Next Door is pregnant and realizes for the first time that writing about working class people is not only possible but desirable. Later, Serafin embarks upon an intimate criticism of touchstones of Western culture: Roland Barthes and Daniel Defoe are counterparts, he suggests, and shows why Leonard Cohen was read so avidly by the young proto-hippies of the era, not because of his writing but because he physically modelled a way to be cool. The ceremonial objects collected by anthropologists, according to Serafin, are not actually art but something else again. Serafin critiques literary magazines and western novels. He discusses the work of Don DeLillo, Terry Glavin, Steve McCaffery, Northrop Frye, and William Henry Drummond. There's an engagement to these essays that lightly sketches the workings of a mind forever learning.

The Distorters of History: Unexpected Changes in the Media and the Motion Picture Industry with Movies Forever Expanded-Updated Edition Robert D. Ronson, 2013-06-20 If some authorities say the political history is Ronson's interpretation, then ask them why the facts are found in the World Almanac. Controversial issues in politics and greed dominate our society with power struggles for change. My book tries to show how past mistakes lead up to how our system is working now but also discusses what I think are enjoyable films that adequately entertain the average person looking for temporary escapism. Most critics or journalists analyze, evaluate, and review films in terms of production values or political reasons. I simply buy a ticket and walk in as a member of the audience. After the movie, asking myself questions how well I liked it is what I pass on to the viewer.

Movie Maker, 1985 Ride, Boldly Ride Mary Lea Bandy, Kevin L. Stoehr, 2012-10 This book is a survey of the movie Western that covers its history from the early silent era to recent spins on the genre in films such as No Country for Old Men, True Grit, and Cowboys & Aliens. The authors provide fresh perspectives on landmark films such as Stagecoach, Red River, The Searchers, The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance, and The Wild Bunch, and they also pay tribute to many underappreciated Westerns including 3 Bad Men, The Wind, The Big Trail, Ruggles of Red Gap, Northwest Passage, The Westerner, The Furies, Jubal, and Comanche Station. The book explores major phases of the Western's development: silent era oaters, A production classics of the 1930s and early 1940s, and the more psychologically complex presentations of the Westerner that emerged in the post-World War II period. They examine various forms of genre revival and genre revisionism that have recurred over the past half century, culminating especially in the masterworks of Clint Eastwood. Central themes of the book include the inner life of the Western hero, the importance of the natural landscape, the tension between myth and history, the depiction of the Native American, and the juxtaposing of comedy.
