Technology, Television, and Competition Jeffrey A. Hart, 2004-02-05 In the late 1980s and 1990s the advanced industrial countries considered replacing the existing analogue television infrastructure with a new digital one A key common feature to the debates over digital TV DTV in the United States Western Europe and Japan was the eventual victory of the ideas of digitalism the superiority of everything digital over everything analogue and of digital convergence the merging of computing telecommunications and broadcasting infrastructures made possible by digitalization in public debates over standards Jeffrey Hart's book shows how nationalism and regionalism combined with digitalism to produce three different and incompatible DTV standards in the three regions an outcome which has led to missed opportunities in developing the new technologies Hart's book contributes to our understanding of relations between business and government and of competition between the world's great economic powers

Global Media James D. White, 2013-09-05 This book is about the processes of globalization demonstrated through a comparative study of three television case histories in Asia. Also illustrated are different approaches to providing television services in the world: public service NHK in Japan, state CCTV in China, and commercial STAR TV based in Hong Kong. Through its focus, Global Media addresses a considerable lacuna in the media studies literature which tends to have a heavy Western bias. It provides an original addition to the literature on globalization which is often abstract and anecdotal in addition to making a major contribution to comparative research in Asia. Finally, it offers a thoughtful causal layered analysis with a concluding argument in favor of public service television.

Global Change T. Inoguchi, 2001-04-17 This book examines global change from a dialectical perspective.
