in the Romantic Period M. Storey, 2000-05-16 This book provides a lively exploration of the way in which several of the major British Romantic poets confront the writing and theorising of poetry The question What is a poet is asked and answered with great frequency and variety invariably there is an underlying sense of unease often in the shadow as it were of Wordsworth's lines We poets in our youth begin in gladness But thereof comes in the end despondency and madness The apparent confidence of the manifestoes is undermined by the self-doubts of much of the poetry ranging from Coleridge to John Clare

Siegfried Sassoon Patrick Campbell, 2007-08-13 Though Siegfried Sassoon would argue the point throughout his life most critics regard his war poetry written during World War I as the best of his writings Like many of his artistic contemporaries Sassoon embraced the Great War for Civilization with great fervor and it was this passion that he brought to his earliest writings about the war Absolution his first war poem published in 1915 summed up his feelings fighting for our freedom we are free Fighting on the frontlines Sassoon soon came to the conviction that his war for civilization was anything but civilized And thus his writings took on a new tone courageously denouncing a conflict that was no longer about defense and liberation but was for aggression and conquest Through primary documents and extensive research the current work provides critical analyses of Sassoon's war poetry Detailed examinations of each of the so-called trench poems show how the poet and his poetry were transformed through his wartime experiences and give the rationale for the critical consensus that the Sassoon canon is among the most significant in the literature of modern warfare Romantic and Victorian Poetry Clarence
