King Mob:

Our Sentence is Up Patrick Meaney, 2011 Grant Morrison's THE INVISIBLES has been hailed as an ambitious comics masterpiece the key to Morrison's entire body of work and the inspiration for THE MATRIX. But it's also frequently written off as incomprehensible. Using a conversational accessible style Patrick Meaney director of GRANT MORRISON TALKING WITH GODS opens up THE INVISIBLES through in depth analysis that makes sense of the series's complicated ideas fractured chronology and delirious blend of fiction and reality. Meaney also explores how the series's fictional conspiracy theories fare in the wake of 9/11 and the War on Terror. The book includes an extensive interview with Grant Morrison and an introduction by Timothy Callahan author of GRANT MORRISON THE EARLY YEARS. From Sequart Research Literacy Organization. King Mob David Wise, Stuart Wise, Nick Brandt, 2014 A highly personal deeply political coldly analytical and achingly optimistic account of what some consider to be one of the most important English political groupings of the 20th Century and beyond. The psycho-mythological legacy left behind by King Mob nowadays often tied up with its assumed influence on Malcolm McLaren, the Pistols and Punk Rock and via its wider Situationist context Factory Records and the Hacienda far outweighs the physical imprint they left behind in the form of six glued together copies of its often wildly and deliberately provocative publication and the iconic graffiti left up around West London and beyond. From a radical working class perspective Dave Wise helped by brother Stuart and longtime collaborator Nick Brandt gives a first hand account of the loose formation of King Mob after their core members were excluded from the Situationist International by the schism happy Debord in 1967. Not unfortunately as the story used to go after Debord came to London looking for the crack squad of pro situ streetfighters he'd heard about and found Dave and Stuart waiting in front of Match of the Day getting on the lager it never happened. A Critical History celebrates their attempt to move from the Situationist salon to the street whilst not shying away from identifying tactical strategic and theoretical holes in the group's day to day actions as seen by brothers Dave and Stuart. Plans to blow up waterfalls getting arrested on demos dressed as pantomime horses the back end got off in court on the grounds he didn't know what the front end was doing seriously sharing oversized baked bean costumes with ultra Maoists on Vietnam marches. Getting high and hungrily devouring Coleridge De Quincey Rimbaud Marx De Sade Breton Joyce and Hegel. Pissing over the lectern whilst declaring the death of art at the 1968 English Surrealist convention being falsely put in the frame for the 1969 Newcastle School of Art firebombing perhaps most infamously dressing up as Santa Claus in Selfridges toy dept Xmas 1969 and watching the chaos of consumerism unfold before them as crying children had the King Mob freely gifted toys wrenched from their arms by confused and desperate employees. There was never any danger of King Mob withering quietly on the vine of ritualised opposition but the downturn of the early 1970s and the apparent end of any hope for imminent social revolution as the forthcoming horror of a totalitarian free market society of pseudo individualism hove into view hit some of them harder than they could have imagined. As more financially independent King
