,2021-11-01 This book provides the first detailed overview of research on rulership in theory and practice with a particular emphasis on the monarchies of Bohemia Hungary and Poland in the High and Late Middle Ages The contributions examine the legitimization of rule of the first local dynasties the ritual practice of power the ruling strategies and practices of power in the established monarchies and the manifold influences on the rulership in East Central Europe from outside the region such as from Byzantium and the Holy Roman Empire The collection shows that these ideas and practices enabled the new polities identity began to take shape in the late Middle Ages during a period of political weakness and fragmentation for the Holy Roman Empire the monarchy under which most Germans lived Between the thirteenth and fifteenth centuries the idea that there existed a single German people with its own lands language and character became increasingly widespread as was expressed in written works of the period This book the first on its subject in any language poses a challenge to some dominant assumptions of current historical scholarship that early European nation making inevitably took place within the developing structures of the institutional state and that in the absence of such structural growth the idea of a German nation was uniquely radically and fatally retarded In recounting the formation of German identity in the late Middle Ages this book offers an important new perspective both on German history and on European nation making Le sceptre d'Ottokar, 2005
