Homer's Daughters Fiona Cox, Elena Theodorakopoulos, 2019-10-03 This collection of essays examines the various ways in which the Homeric epics have been responded to reworked and rewritten by women writers of the twentieth and early twenty first centuries Beginning in 1914 with the First World War it charts this understudied strand of the history of Homeric reception over the subsequent century up to the present day analysing the extraordinary responses both to the Odyssey and to the Iliad by women from around the world The backgrounds of these authors and the genres they employ memoir poetry children's literature rap novels testify not only to the plasticity of Homeric epic but also to the widening social classes to whom Homer appeals and it is unsurprising to see the myriad ways in which women writers across the globe have played their part in the story of Homer's afterlife. From surrealism to successive waves of feminism to creative futures, Homer's footprint can be seen in a multitude of different literary and political movements and the essays in this volume bring an array of critical approaches to bear on the work of authors ranging from H.D. and Simone Weil to Christa Wolf, Margaret Atwood and Kate Tempest. Students and scholars of not only classics but also translation studies, comparative literature and women's writing will find much to interest them while the volume's concluding reflections by Emily Wilson on her new translation of the Odyssey are an apt reminder to all of just how open a text can be and of how great a difference can be made by a woman's voice.

Helen Webber Judy Detrick, 2018-05-25 A brief biography of artist Helen Webber Andrea Fraser Andrea Fraser, Rhea Anastas, Alejandro Cesarco, 2019 This publication is a substantial archive and a singular point of entry into thinking with and understanding Andrea Fraser's work and reception. The interview format provides intimate insight into Fraser's self-positioning as a central aspect of her practice. By presenting the artist's voice as mediated through interlocutors ranging from professional peers to popular media, Collected Interviews 1990-2018 uniquely contextualizes Fraser's practice in the artistic, institutional and discursive fields in which she intervenes. As Fraser is engaged, challenged and understood from diverse perspectives, readers learn as much about her artistic commitments from the artist's humor and affect as from her incisive analyses. The collection spans three decades from the early 1990s to the present and is organized chronologically with minimal editing. The collection's unmediated format allows Fraser's key ideas and themes to attain deeper resonance through repetitions and subtle differentiations over multiple conversations. Postcolonial Screen Adaptation and the British Novel Vivian Y. Kao, 2020-10-01 This book brings film adaptation of literature to bear on the question of how nineteenth-century imperial ideologies of progress continue to inform power inequalities in a global capitalist age. Not simply the promotion of general betterment for all, improvement in the British colonial context licensed a superior master race to uplift its colonized populations morally, socially and economically. This book argues that on the one hand, film adaptations of nineteenth-century novels reveal the arrogance and coercive intentions that underpin contemporary notions of development, humanitarianism and modernity improvement's post-Victorian guises. On the other hand, the book also argues that the films use their nineteenth-century source texts to criticize these same legacies of imperialism. By bringing together film adaptation, postcolonial theory and literary studies, the book demonstrates that adaptation as both method and cultural product provides a way to engage with the baggage of ideological heritage in our contemporary global media environment.
