High School Journalism Confronts Critical Deadline. a Digest of the Full Report Prepared by the Journalism Education Association Commission on the Role of Journalism in Secondary Education Journalism

Education Association, 1987 In cooperation with the American College Testing act Program the Journalism in Education Association conducted a 2 year study to explore the status of high school journalism and in particular to determine factual data concerning the values of journalism in secondary education by comparing students with high school journalism publication experience with those having no such experience The study was divided into three parts The first part which compared college grades act scores and high school grades between students with and without high school newspaper or yearbook experience examined 19 249 students enrolled in 10 colleges and universities who had completed at least one year of college Results indicated that the 4 798 students who had served on their high school newspaper or yearbook scored higher than their counterparts without publications experience The second part examined 1 204 students who had taken the act Assessment tests and the act comp Prospectus Writing test segment in order to compare the collegiate writing samples of students with and without high school newspaper yearbook experience Results revealed that students with publications experience scored significantly higher than those without such experience Finally the third part surveyed 558 students with high school publications experience to detect influences of a journalism credit course per se in relationship to all other language arts courses that students took for credit with results indicating the importance of journalism education as a route to good writing Mm Journalism for High Schools William Naill Otto,1926 Journalism for High Schools Charles Dillon,1918 A Principal's Guide to High School Journalism Laurence Randolph Campbell,1957 Still Captive? Society Journalism Education Committee,2015-02-25 This book is the work of 14 separate individuals who came together out of a mutual passion that of teaching journalism Although all the authors are college or university professors almost all of them began their journalism journey in a high school classroom most in a newspaper class many in a yearbook class Unfortunately not all of them see the same enthusiasm for the subject that they remember What they see in college classrooms are students who think they can jump right into being a sports analyst for a network or a fashion editor for a major publication all as first jobs out of college Many who come to higher education without a high school journalism experience come without the necessary critical thinking creative thinking collaborative and communication skills That is the reasoning behind this book not just to discover the state of high school journalism but a way to help teachers improve their own skills This work is for teachers who either are or will be teaching high school journalism and people who are interested in preserving the programs The first part of this work is a look at the state of high school journalism in America in 2014 This includes a nationwide survey with the results in Section One For teachers who want to argue for support in terms of newer technology working with local professionals additional certification or other issues this section provides that information Section Two was developed because it became apparent early on that many high school journalism teachers had no idea about the federal court laws which govern what they teach The three chapters take teachers from the earliest history and laws through the Hazelwood decision and slightly beyond cases that have significant impact on governance of scholastic news media Section Three turns back to the classroom itself and discusses the basics of high school journalism how outstanding programs have survived teaching the 4Cs how teachers can best use available workshops and incorporate more professional assistance in their classroom The final section gives all the conclusions about what can be done to improve high school journalism plus an annotated bibliography for anyone who wants to conduct further research in this subject and brief biographical sketches of the authors and editors of this work Also added is the original survey sent to 600 high school teachers It is the sincere hope of the SPJ Education Committee that this work is of assistance to scholastic programs throughout the country
