American and Chinese-Language Cinemas Lisa Funnell, Man-Fung Yip, 2014-09-19 Critics frequently describe the influence of America through Hollywood and other cultural industries as a form of cultural imperialism. This unidirectional model of interaction does not address however the counter flows of Chinese language films into the American film market or the influence of Chinese filmmakers, film stars and aesthetics in Hollywood. The aim of this collection is to reconsider the complex dynamics of transnational cultural flows between American and Chinese language film industries. The goal is to bring a more historical perspective to the subject focusing as much on the Hollywood influence on early Shanghai or postwar Hong Kong films as on the intensifying flows between American and Chinese language cinemas in recent decades. Contributors emphasize the processes of appropriation and reception involved in transnational cultural practices examining film production, distribution and reception.

Seen That, Now What? Andrea Shaw, 1996-04-09 You've never used a video guide like this before. You loved Chariots of Fire and you want to see something like it. Where do you start? Look up Chariots of Fire in the index and find it in Drama. There you'll see it listed under White Flannel Films. Welcome to the glory days of the British empire when the ruling class rode horses on large country estates, servants were in plentiful supply and only an adulterous lover questioned the status quo. As in other costume dramas, the period details are celebrations of all that was brilliant and luxurious, with the camera sweeping over British Indian or African countrysides and exquisite turn of the century interiors. But all this lush upholstery doesn't cover up the intelligent, thoughtful stories usually based on Lawrence Forster and Waugh novels, played by stellar British actors. In White Flannel Films, there are concise, witty reviews of select movies like A Room with a View, A Passage to India, Heat and Dust, The Shooting Party, Out of Africa, White Mischief and more. There is also a unique ratings system that helps you distinguish the bombs from the sleepers. But the key is that all these films offer the same kind of viewing experience: if you like one, chances are good you'll like the others too. Seen That, Now What? is your own personal video genius who knows everything about movies and exactly what you like to watch.

A World War II veteran and Merchant Marine, he was respected in the surfing and fitness communities for his ageless athleticism. This revealing portrait of the life of a working character actor covers Jaeckel's noteworthy career through each of his film and television appearances from Guadalcanal Diary (1943) to Baywatch (1994).
