Kinship Bereavement In Later Life:

Kinship Bereavement in Later Life Brian de Vries, 2019-03-19 This collection of articles is an outgrowth of the Death Dying Bereavement and Widowhood Interest Group of the Gerontological Society of America and comprises empirical accounts of several distinct family losses the death of a spouse sibling parent child and grandchild These articles represent normative and non normative losses the juxtaposition of short term and long term bereavement reactions cross sectional and longitudinal comparisons sociological psychological and psycholinguistic research paradigms national and regional level data and qualitative and quantitative analytic strategies The articles and their approaches are as diverse and varied as are the experiences they describe yet each contributes something of value to the more singular and superordinate goal of understanding kinship bereavement in the later years

Spousal Bereavement in Late Life Deborah S. Carr, PhD, Randolph M. Nesse, MD, Camille B. Wortman, PhD, 2005-11-08 This volume provides insightful analysis and theoretical interpretation of factors that contribute to a range of adjustment patterns among bereaved persons in late life It places the experience of widowhood in late life squarely within the context of contemporary society and explores a remarkable range of associated issues The volume is destined to become a classic it will set the standard for future empirical investigation of the experience of bereavement among older adults For Further Information on the CLOC Study Please Click on CLOC

New Directions in the Study of Late Life Religiousness and Spirituality Susan H. McFadden, Mark Brennan, 2014-05-01 Examine the questions of how what and why associated with religiousness and spirituality in the lives of older adults New Directions in the Study of Late Life Religiousness and Spirituality explores new ways of thinking about a topic that was once taboo but that has now attracted considerable attention from the gerontological community It examines various approaches to methodology and definition that are used in the study of religion spirituality and aging In addition it explores the ways that gerontological research can highlight the role of religion and spirituality in the lives of older adults The first section will introduce you to new ways of thinking about research methodology and data analysis that can be applied to studying the complexity of older adults religious spiritual practice and beliefs You ll learn several approaches to the study of phenomena that are both personal and also deeply embedded in community The second section addresses issues of definition exploring important questions that call for critical reflection such as What are we studying What social and psychological influences shape our thinking about definition and Do the definitions used by gerontologists match those held by older people The final section moves the study of religion spirituality and aging beyond a focus on health and mortality to examine well being more broadly in the context of the life experiences of older adults Here is a small sample of what you ll learn about in New Directions in the Study of Late Life Religiousness and Spirituality structural equation modeling a statistical method designed to capture the dynamics inherent in the passage of time feminist qualitative methods for studying spiritual resiliency in older women spirituality as a public health issue the differences between groups of older people in the way they define religion and spirituality the psychosocial implications of two types of religious orientation dwelling and seeking older women's responses to the experience of widowhood and to the question of whether their religious beliefs were affected by the experience how social context influences our decisions and our interpretations of people's religious beliefs behaviors and experiences the ways that people caring for a spouse with dementia rely on religious coping a model that delineates three different ways people relate to God in coping and a study that asks whether these types of coping produce different outcomes for caregivers how people adjust to bereavement as a function of their beliefs about an afterlife

The Encyclopedia of Aging Linda S. Noelker, PhD, Kenneth Rockwood, MD, FRCPC, Richard L. Sprott, Ph.D., 2006-03-17 A COMPREHENSIVE RESOURCE ON GERONTOLOGY AND GERIATRICS Since its inception in 1987 The Encyclopedia of Aging has proven to be the definitive resource for scholars and students across the burgeoning and increasingly interdisciplinary fields of gerontology and geriatrics Like its three esteemed predecessors the fourth edition contains concise readable explorations of hundreds of terms concepts and issues related to the lives of older adults as well as timely coverage of the many new programs and services for the elderly Updated under the distinguished stewardship of editor in chief Richard Schulz to reflect the infusion of new information across the scientific disciplines this new edition brings readers up to the moment significant advances in biology physiology genetics medicine psychology nursing social services sociology economics technology and political science While retaining the format and standard of excellence that marked the first three editions the fourth edition encompasses a wealth of new information from the social and health sciences It contains the most current bibliography of an expanding literature an exhaustive index and extensive cross references This much anticipated update of the field's most authoritative resource will take its place as an indispensable reference for specialists and non specialists across a broad range of disciplines that now comprise the field of aging
