Comparative Regionalisms for Development in the 21st Century Timothy M. Shaw, 2016-05-23 The global financial crisis at the turn of the decade has accelerated changes in the relative standing of major regions As both the US and Eurozone economies have confronted a series of setbacks and struggles to find their second breath so Asia Latin America and even Africa have picked up the slack and have been able to maintain high levels of growth The resilience of the Global South questions whether we are witnessing an evolution towards a regional rebalancing or even global restructuring This responding volume has four interrelated topics It explores the transformation taking place in with regard to the financing of development in the Global South and the apparition of new players in the field The emergence of New Regionalisms in the South and the usefulness of these experiences for comparative studies of regional relationship is explicated It turns its attention to new forms of transnational governance that are emerging and the role that a novelty of actors play in this new multilateralism Finally it looks into the implications of this trio of novel directions and players for analyses and policies

Central Africa to 1870 David Birmingham, 1981 The complete Cambridge History of Africa aims to present the most comprehensive and up to date synthesis of historical development on the African continent and will be valuable to both students and teachers of African history

Conflict in Africa Adda Bruemmer Bozeman, 2015-03-08 Do modern Western ideas about the nature of conflict and its resolution apply to Africa To answer this question Adda Bozeman examines conflict in Africa south of the Sahara in its many social political and cultural aspects past and present The author shows how African perspectives on war and diplomacy have evolved under the influence of nonliteracy tribalism and a concept of undifferentiated time In addition she confirms that indigenous cultural traditions are resurgent everywhere making it unlikely that African political values will become more closely aligned with those of the West

The two civilizations view conflict differently and have different ways of resolving it. The Africans are more at ease with conflict than their Western counterparts and they do not see war and peace as the mutually exclusive phenomena that Occidental societies hold them to be. The author concludes that modern Western concepts of conflict not only do not but cannot allow for African realities. The Statesman's Year-Book J. Scott-Keltie, M. Epstein, 2016-12-27. The classic reference work that provides annually updated information on the countries of the world. The Statesman's Year-book, 1924. Supplementary Papers Royal Geographical Society (Great Britain), 1889. Motion, Direction and Location in Languages Erin Shay, Uwe Seibert, 2003-01-01. This book contributes to an area of study that is of interest to linguists of all backgrounds. Typological in nature, this volume presents data analysis from the major language families of Africa as well as Sino-Tibetan, Austronesian, Japanese, Indo-European, Siouan, and Penutian. The 16 contributors to the volume share a commitment to examining the language phenomena pertaining to the volume's theme with a fresh eye. While most of the papers make reference to existing theoretical frameworks, each also makes a novel and sometimes surprising contribution to the body of knowledge and theory concerning motional, directional, and locational predicates, complements, morphology, adpositions, and other phenomena. This collection of articles suitably complements courses on comparative and diachronic linguistics, semantics, syntax, typology, or field methods. Fieldwork of Empire, 1840-1900 Adrian S. Wisnicki, 2019-03-20. Fieldwork of Empire, 1840-1900: Intercultural Dynamics in the Production of British Expeditionary Literature examines the impact of non-western cultural, political, and social forces and agencies on the production of British expeditionary literature. It is a project of recovery. The book argues that such non-western impact was considerable that it shaped the discursive and material dimensions of expeditionary literature and that the impact extends to diverse materials from the expeditionary archive at a scale and depth that critics have previously not acknowledged. The focus of the study falls on Victorian expeditionary literature related to Africa, a continent of accelerating British imperial interest in the nineteenth century, but the study's findings have the potential to inform scholarship on European expeditionary, imperial, and colonial literature from a wide variety of periods and locations. The book's analysis is illustrative, not comprehensive. Each chapter targets intercultural encounters and expeditionary literature associated with a specific time period and African region or location. The book suggests that future scholarship, especially in areas such as expeditionary history, geography, cartography, travel writing studies, and book history, needs to adopt much more of a localized, non-western focus if it is to offer a full account of the production of expeditionary discourse and literature. Fresh and brackish water
