Land Market Distortion and Tenure Reform Anthony Y. Koo,1982      Land Market Distortion and Tenure Reform Anthony Y. C. Koo,1982      Land Market Distortion and Tenure Reform A. U. C. Koo,1982 Prevalent rationale for land reform Land market structure Effects of rent distortion at the farm level Rural income distribution Wealth redistribution and agricultural development      Land Tenure Reform in Asia and Africa S. Holden,K. Otsuka,K. Deininger,2013-08-30 Rural poverty remains widespread and persistent in South Asia and Sub Saharan Africa A group of leading experts critically examines the impact of land tenure reforms on poverty reduction and natural resource management in countries in Africa and Asia with highly diverse historical contexts      Policy for Land Lynton Keith Caldwell,Kristin Sharon Shrader-Frechette,1993 In this book two leading scholars a political scientist and an ethical philosopher outline a new national policy for land use and provide the legal political and ethical justifications for their proposed policies      Urban Land Markets Somik V. Lall,Mila Freire,Belinda Yuen,Robin Rajack,Jean-Jacques Helluin,2009-10-07 As urbanization progresses at a remarkable pace policy makers and analysts come to understand and agree on key features that will make this process more efficient and inclusive leading to gains in the welfare of citizens Drawing on insights from economic geography and two centuries of experience in developed countries the World Bank s World Development Report 2009 Reshaping Economic Geography emphasizes key aspects that are fundamental to ensuring an efficient rural urban transformation Critical among these are land as the most important resource and well functioning land markets Regardless of the stage of urbanization flexible and forward looking institutions that help the efficient functioning of land markets are the bedrock of successful urbanization strategies In particular institutional arrangements for allocating land rights and for managing and regulating land use have significant implications for how cities deliver agglomeration economies and improve the welfare of their residents Property rights well functioning land markets and the management and servicing of land required to accommodate urban expansion and provide trunk infrastructure are all topics that arise as regions progress from incipient urbanization to medium and high density      ERS Staff Report ,1994

Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Wallace C. Olsen,1991 The first of an eight volume series The Literature of the Agricultural Sciences this book analyzes the trends in the published literature of agricultural economics and rural sociology during the past fifty years It uses citation analysis and other bibliometric techniques to identify the primary journals report series and monographs of current importance to the developed industrial countries as well as those in the Third World      Journal of Economic Literature ,1985      Agricultural Land Redistribution Hans P. Binswanger-Mkhize,Camille Bourguignon,Rogierus Johannes Eugenius van den Brink,2009-01-01 Despite 250 years of land reform all over the World important land inequalities remain especially in Latin America and Southern Africa While in these countries there is near consensus on the need for redistribution much controversy persists around how to redistribute land peacefully and legally often blocking progress on implementation This book focuses on the how of land redistribution in order to forge greater consensus among land reform practitioners and enable them to make better choices on the mechanisms of land reform Reviews and case studies describe and analyze the al      Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Asia Kym Anderson, Will Martin, 2009-02-04 The vast majority of the world s poorest households depend on farming for their livelihoods During the 1960s and 1970s most developing countries imposed pro urban and anti agricultural policies while many high income countries restricted agricultural imports and subsidized their farmers Both sets of policies inhibited economic growth and poverty alleviation in developing countries Although progress has been made over the past two decades to reduce those policy biases many trade and welfare reducing price distortions remain between agriculture and other sectors and within the agricultural sector of both rich and poor countries Comprehensive empirical studies of the disarray in world agricultural markets appeared approximately 20 years ago Since then the Organisation for Economic Co operation and Development had provided estimates each year of market distortions in high income countries but there have been no comparable estimates for the world s developing countries This volume is the third in a series other volumes cover Africa Europe s transition economies and Latin America and the Caribbean that not only fills that void for recent years but extends the estimates in a consistent and comparable way back in time and provides analytical narratives for scores of countries that shed light on the evolving nature and extent of policy interventions over the past half century Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Asia provides an overview of the evolution of distortions to agricultural incentives caused by price and trade policies in the 12 largest economies of East and South Asia Together these countries constitute more than 95 percent of the region s population agricultural output and overall GDP Sectoral trade and exchange rate policies in the region have changed greatly since the 1950s and there have been substantial reforms since the 1980s most notably in China and India Nonetheless numerous price distortions in this region remain and others have added in recent years The new empirical indicators in these country studies provide a strong evidence based foundation for assessing the successes and failures of the past and for evaluating policy options for the years ahead      Share Leasing and Production Efficiency G.
