Lady President:

Woman President Kristina Horn Sheeler, Karrin Vasby Anderson, 2013-08-08 What elements of American political and rhetorical culture block the imagining and thus the electing of a woman as president Examining both major party and third party campaigns by women including the 2008 campaigns of Hillary Clinton and Sarah Palin the authors of Woman President Confronting Postfeminist Political Culture identify the factors that limit electoral possibilities for women Pundits have been predicting women's political ascendancy for years And yet although the 2008 presidential campaign featured Hillary Clinton as an early frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination and Sarah Palin as the first female Republican vice presidential nominee no woman has yet held either of the top two offices The reasons for this are complex and varied but the authors assert that the question certainly encompasses more than the shortcomings of women candidates or the demands of the particular political moment Instead the authors identify a pernicious backlash against women presidential candidates one that is expressed in both political and popular culture In Woman President Confronting Postfeminist Political Culture Kristina Horn Sheeler and Karrin Vasby Anderson provide a discussion of US presidentiality as a unique rhetorical role Within that framework they review women's historical and contemporary presidential bids placing special emphasis on the 2008 campaign They also consider how presidentiality is framed in candidate oratory campaign journalism film and television digital media and political parody

The Woman President Ramona Vijayarasa, 2022-06-27 Too much attention is paid to the absence of women leaders around the world rather than their presence leaving a gap in our understanding of the difference women leaders make on the lives of fellow women The Woman President presents a unique comparative study of women's leadership and the law offering new ways for understanding the impact of female presidential leadership on women's everyday lives by analysing the legal legacies of four women presidents Corazon Aquino 1986 1992 Gloria Macapagal Arroyo 2001 2010 Megawati Sukarnoputri 2001 2004 and Chandrika Bandaranaike Kumaratunga 1994 2005 It uses a new and innovative methodology the Gender Legislative Index to score laws enacted during these four tenures from a women's rights perspective The findings challenge and expand our understanding of what constitutes a woman's issue bringing within its gendered analysis labour law reform democracy anti corruption poverty alleviation and pro peace interventions alongside more oft considered terrain such as gender based violence reproductive rights gender equality quotas and women's rights at work This book also offers important insights into the institutional and social mechanisms that enable women leaders to lead for women including women's movements and global networks of women presidents and prime ministers The words of women leaders themselves both from personal interviews and speeches bring depth to the assessments and conclusions drawn The Woman President offers new tools and sharpens old ones to provide an essential comparative contribution to our knowledge about the dynamics and impact of female presidencies drawing from the realities of the Asia region

The Presidents' First Ladies Rae Lindsay, 2001 Describes the various First Ladies that have lived in the White House and discusses their duties and privileges The First Woman President of the United States! Carole Marsh, 2007-04-01 Explore where women fit in the political process today with this fun and thought provoking book Cover back Gentle Lady Samia Suluhu Hassan: Tanzania's first female president John Ndembwike, This work is about Samia Suluhu Hassan Tanzania's first female president She was also Tanzania's first female vice president And she was the only female president in Africa when she went into office She is also the third female president in Africa with executive powers One of the biggest challenges Tanzania faces under the leadership of President Samia Suluhu Hassan is the quest for true democracy The country is at the crossroads It either pursues democracy in the full practical not theoretical sense or it abandons the goal and maintains the status quo reversing whatever gains that have been made in the past in pursuit of this noble goal The work looks at the central and critical role Mama Samia as she is known in Tanzania and sometimes beyond is destined to play in the quest for this new dispensation There are strident and persistent demands by the opposition parties for a complete overhaul of the system They demand a new constitution There is an imperative need to establish an independent electoral commission level the playing field to enable the opposition to compete fairly and effectively against the ruling party which has been in power since the country won independence more than 60 years ago Even after multiparty elections were introduced in 1995 after 30 years of one party rule since 1965 Tanzania has not achieved full democracy It remains a de facto one party state For the first time in the country's history in the post colonial era Tanzania has a leader Mama Samia who has promised to undertake fundamental changes and work with the opposition to transform the country into a truly democratic society She has promised to level the playing field and has stated that she will make sure opposition parties are able to compete fairly and effectively against the ruling party even if that will cost her the presidency in the next election in 2025 No other Tanzanian president has made that commitment before since the introduction of multiparty politics in 1992 or has even implied let alone admitted that there is no level playing field in the political arena They all have claimed there is a level playing field to enable opposition parties to win elections against the ruling party and when they lose they lose fairly If President Samia does what she has promised to do she is going to be the most transformative figure in the history of Tanzania besides the founding father of the nation Mwalimu Julius Kambarage Nyerere who led the struggle for the independence of Tanganyika and led the country to be the first in East Africa to attain sovereign status She will be remembered as the leader who gave Tanzania a new constitution reduced the power of the presidency at the expense of her own ruling party as demanded by the opposition established an independent electoral commission levelled the playing field to enable opposition parties to compete fairly and effectively against the ruling party without any interference by the government to block them from doing so and transformed the country into a full democracy I have described her as The Gentle Lady but also as someone with steely determination to get things done She also likes to get things done on consensus basis an approach that has won her support in the opposition camp a rare achievement among leaders of the ruling party who prefer to win or get things done on their own terms and often excluding the opposition In spite of her softness she is destined as a steely character to shake the country to its foundation for a complete overhaul of the system and radically transform the political landscape into one that accommodates all if she does what she has said she is going to do and if she works together with the opposition to achieve those goals all of which are non partisan transcending narrow political interests in the best interest of the nation She will be remembered as the mother of democracy in Tanzania But she will also need the support of political heavyweights and others in her own party to implement her decisions and fulfill her agenda and transform the country into a new nation with a solid democratic foundation It has been a long journey starting almost thirty years ago in 1995 when the country had multiparty elections and entered a new era of multiparty politics not democracy in an attempt to achieve freedom and equality in the political arena by guaranteeing the right of every individual to express his her views without fear of being muzzled and by levelling the playing field to enable opposition parties to compete fairly and effectively against the ruling party which has been in power since independence The goal has been elusive mainly because of government intervention to thwart the process in order to enable the ruling party to perpetuate itself in power the ruling party and the government are one and the same thing in Tanzania and have always been The refusal and unwillingness of national leaders to level the playing field in order to achieve genuine democracy has unfortunately somewhat been sanctioned and legitimised by the opposition parties themselves because of their refusal to unite and form a cohesive bloc as one strong party with nationwide appeal to effectively challenge the ruling party which has enormous advantages of mobilising support among the people It has had the opportunity and the experience to build and consolidate its base across the nation all the way down to the grassroots level for decades since the end of colonial rule In order to provide a counterweight against such a behemoth there is an imperative need for opposition parties to unite and form one large party that can match the ruling party in mobilising support nationwide That is the next challenge for the opposition in its quest for true democracy Otherwise be prepared to maintain the status quo and accept its legitimacy validated by the ruling party s dominance of the political landscape in fact across the sociopolitical and economic spectrum because it is a dominance derived from electoral mandate as CCM continues to win elections without credible challenge to its supremacy at the polls

Women for President Erika Falk,2013-12-01 Newly updated to examine Hillary Clinton s formidable 2008 presidential campaign Women for President analyzes the gender bias the media has demonstrated in covering women candidates since the first woman ran for America s highest office in 1872 Tracing the campaigns of nine women who ran for president through 2008 Victoria Woodhull Belva Lockwood Margaret Chase Smith Shirley Chisholm Patricia Schroeder Lenora Fulani Elizabeth Dole Carol Moseley Braun and Hillary Clinton Erika Falk finds little progress in the fair treatment of women candidates The press portrays female candidates as unviable unnatural and incompetent and often ignores or belittles women instead of reporting their ideas and intent This thorough comparison of men s and women s campaigns reveals a worrisome trend of sexism in press coverage a trend that still persists today First Ladies Dorothy
