Drylands Development and Combating Desertification Florian Plit, Joanna Plit, Władysław Wąkowski, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1995-01-01      Geo-Informatics for Combating Land Degradation and Desertification T.S. Chouhan, 2018-10-01 Desertification means land degradation in arid semiarid and dry sub humid areas resulting from various factors including climatic variations and human activities Combat Desertification advocates for the importance of inclusive cooperation to restore and rehabilitate degraded land and contribute towards achieving the overall Sustainable Development Goals Land has been an overlooked component in sustainable development for years Now we view land as a vital link to provide solutions to cope with many other development challenges such as climate change secure water and energy resources promoting inclusive growth and so on It is widely accepted that satellite remote sensing and Geo informatics system offers considerable advantages for land degradation and desertification assessments With a comprehensive spatial coverage it is intrinsically synoptic and provides objective repetitive data which contribute to resource assessments and monitoring concepts of the process of desertification However if these observations can be coupled with GIS based ecological modeling concepts they may develop their full capacity to be used for modifying and adapting mitigation strategies      Sustainable Mediterranean Construction. Sustainable Environment in the Mediterranean Region: from Housing to Urban and Land Scale Construction Paola De Joanna, Dora Francese, 2012      Land, Man, and Sand James Walls, 1980 A CONFERENCE ON HOW AND WHO LAND TURNS INTO DESERTS AND PROJECT GOALS TO KEEP IT FROM HAPPENING      Desertification Control, 1981      Land Tenure and Livestock Development in Sub-Saharan Africa John William Bennett, Steven W. Lawry, James C. Riddell, 1986      Desertification Control Bulletin, 1979      A Galaxy of Immortal Women Brian Griffith, 2012-05-08 The goddess tradition remakes China and the world      Natural Disasters David Alexander, 2018-10-24 As a well balanced and fully illustrated introductory text this book provides a comprehensive overview of the physical technological and social components of natural disaster The main disaster producing agents are reviewed systematically in terms of geophysical processes and effects monitoring mitigation and warning The relationship between disasters and society is examined with respect to a wide variety of themes including damage assessment and prevention hazard mapping emergency preparedness the provision of shelter and the nature of reconstruction Medical emergencies and the epidemiology of disasters are described and refugee management and aid to the Third World are discussed A chapter is devoted to the sociology psychology economics and history of disasters In many parts of the world the toll of death injury damage and deprivation caused by natural disasters is becoming increasingly serious Major earthquakes volcanic eruptions droughts floods and other similar catastrophes are often followed by large relief operations characterized by substantial involvement of the international community The years 1990 2000 have therefore been designated by the United Nations as the International Decade for Natural Disaster Reduction The book goes beyond mere description and elevates the field of natural catastrophes to a serious academic level The author's insights and perspectives are also informed by his practical experience of being a disaster victim and survivor and hence the unique perspective of a participant observer Only by surmounting the boundaries between disciplines can natural catastrophe be understood and mitigation efforts made effective Thus this book is perhaps the first completely interdisciplinary fully comprehensive survey of natural hazards and disasters It has a clear theoretical basis and it recognizes the importance of six fundamental approaches to the field which it blends carefully in the text in order to avoid the partiality of previous works It covers the earth and social sciences as well as engineering architecture and development studies This breadth is made possible by virtue of a strong emphasis on simple principles of the interaction of geophysical agents with human vulnerability and response All students of environmental sciences studies and geography should find this book useful It is an introductory text which treats this dramatic subject area as something demanding serious academic treatment and not just as an assemblage of horror stories This book is intended for undergraduate students in geography and environmental studies sciences The book should also appeal to any professional or researcher concerned with man environment relations whether in social science or natural science or engineering

The Arid Lands R. L. Heathcote, 1983 Natural Resource Technical Bulletin, 1981 Forests: Elements of Silvology Roelof A.A. Oldeman, 2012-12-06 Silvology is the general science of forest ecosystems without the usual division between Man and Nature This systematic treatment of forests intends to integrate and harmonize existing approaches with the help of systems modeling in a hierarchy of close system levels according to criteria of biological architecture biomass production and species composition Scientists and practitioners will appreciate this synoptic treatment of forests and their ecology allowing the balance of holistic and reductionist viewpoints and the placement of phenomena and techniques Topics covered include introduction of the methods sections on forest organisms a special chapter on trees eco units i.e. forest ecosystems developing after some zero event like fire storm or waterlogging silvatic mosaics built by the eco units of different size architecture and species composition a summary of silvological rules determining system's behaviour at every level e.g. fragmentation and fusion transfer of functions irreversibility and process oscillation

Housing and Planning References, 1980 Natural Disasters David C.
