Land That Thyme Forgot:

Land That Thyme Forgot William Black, 2016-02-29 In the spirit of Al Dente The Land That Thyme Forgot will describe the intrepid gastronome's search for the heart and soul of Britain through the food we eat William Black talks to producers restaurateurs visits the great and the awful and seeks out the country's disappearing specialities tripe Singing Hinnies solomongundy Hindle wakes Sussex Pond pudding and flummery Great names but who on earth still eats let alone cooks them Britain has a very rich culinary tradition though it is only now that we seem ready to reclaim it Our meat can be among the best and the worst The quality of our cheeses has improved exponentially over the past few years Farmer's markets are thriving Our restaurant culture is burgeoning and we have almost got over those ancient Puritan dictats that pleasure is somehow just not what life is all about So perhaps even if we have been a little forgotten in the league of culinary greats times really are a changing William goes in search of lobscouse in Liverpool finds salmon in the Severn and cheddar in well Cheddar This journey through the lost traditions of British cuisine is never less than fascinating Prepare to be amazed

Plats du Jour William Black, 2011-10-31 There is more than a slight malaise in the air these days about French food and cooking While the rest of the world delights in the intricacies of molecular gastronomy and even Britain is revelling in a culinary renaissance in France the years of worship at the temple of the great god Michelin seem to have blinded them to change and evolution Why is this What is it about the French that causes them to be so blinkered about their food Plats du Jour is an attempt to answer that question as William Black explores the highways and byways of French cooking Taking as his starting point the great tradition of French food William tackles years of received wisdom and parochial food snobbery head on though with his mind and his mouth firmly open He eats steak de veau and fried cow's udder with his French wife's family near Orléans He samples the dubious and illegal delights of ortolan in the south west and has the most painfully disappointing gastronomic experience of his life He combs the beaches of Brittany for seafood and is chased away from a festival by an enraged Basque villager His dedication to the culinary cause knows few bounds Plats du Jour is a book which the French aren't going to like very much That said it's a highly entertaining and irreverent look at the world's greatest culinary tradition which will be required reading for anyone with an interest in food and cooking The Cultivation of Taste

Christel Lane, 2014-02-14 After many decades if not centuries of neglect of fine food and high level restaurants in Britain we are seeing a massive explosion of interest in food cooking and dining out Christel Lane's book charts the process of this transformation and examines top contemporary restaurants and their chefs The Cultivation of Taste presents a comparative study of Michelin starred restaurants in Britain and Germany focusing on two countries without an indigenous haute cuisine but which nevertheless have developed internationally reputed fine dining sectors and comparing their development to the fine dining culture in France Written from a sociological perspective chefs are portrayed as part of a complex network in their relationships with their employees their customers gastronomic critics suppliers of food and even their financiers It will appeal to academics in the areas of economic and cultural sociology and those with an interest in small entrepreneurial firms and their work relations but also to all those who have an interest in fine dining restaurants and the chef patrons at the centre of them The book draws on a large number of interviews with renowned chefs diners and Michelin inspectors to provide an unprecedented insight into what goes on in Michelin starred restaurants what makes their chefs tick intrigues their critics and beguiles or annoys their customers Restaurants are viewed not simply as businesses but as cultural enterprises that shape our taste in food ambience and sociality

British food has not traditionally been regarded as one of the world's great cuisines and yet Stilton cheese Scottish raspberries Goosnargh duck and Welsh lamb are internationally renowned and celebrated And then there are all those dishes and recipes that inspire passionate loyalty among the initiated Whitby lemon buns and banoffi pie for example pan haggerty and Henderson's relish All are as integral a part of the country's landscape as green fields rolling hills and rocky coastline In Food Britannia Andrew Webb travels the country to bring together a treasury of regional dishes traditional recipes outstanding ingredients and heroic local producers He investigates the history of saffron farming in the UK tastes the first whisky to be produced in Wales for one hundred years and tracks down the New Forest's foremost expert on wild mushrooms And along the way he uncovers some historical surprises about our national cuisine Did you know for example that the method for making clotted cream that stalwart of the cream tea was probably introduced from the Middle East Or that our very own fish and chips may have started life as a Jewish Portuguese dish Or that Alfred Bird invented his famous custard powder because his wife couldn't eat eggs The result is a rich and kaleidoscopic survey of a remarkably vibrant food scene steeped in history but full of fresh ideas for the future proof if proof were needed that British food has come of age The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2006 Mapping Appetite Jopi Nyman, Gallardo, Pere, 2007 As recent years have witnessed a strong interest in the cultural representation of the culinary ranging from analyses of food representation in film and literature to cultural readings of recipes menus national cuisines and celebrity chefs the study of food narratives amidst contemporary consumer culture has become increasingly more important This book seeks to respond to the challenge by presenting a series of case studies dealing with the representation of food and the culinary in a variety of cultural texts including post colonial and popular fiction women's magazines and food writing The contributors to the first part of the volume explore the various functions of food in post colonial writing ranging from Salman Rushdie and Anita Desai to Zadie Smith and Maggie Gee in the context of globalization and multiculturalism In the second part of the volume the focus is on two genres of popular fiction the romantic novel and science fiction While the romantic novels of Joanne Harris for instance link food and cooking with female empowerment in science fiction food is connected with power and technology The essays in the third part of the book explore the role of food in travel writing women's magazines and African American cookery books showing how issues of gender nation and race are present in food narratives Tribune for Victory and Socialism, 2005 Rooting in a Useless Land Chelsea Fisher, 2023-10-03 In Rooting in a Useless Land Chelsea Fisher examines the deep histories of environmental justice conflicts in Mexico's Yucatán Peninsula She draws on her innovative archaeological research in Yaxunah an Indigenous Maya farming community dealing with land dispossession but with a surprising twist Yaxunah happens to be entangled with prestigious sustainable development projects initiated by some of the most famous chefs in the world Fisher contends that these sustainable development initiatives inadvertently bolster the useless land narrative a colonial belief that Maya forests are empty wastelands which has been driving Indigenous land dispossession and environmental injustice for centuries Rooting in a Useless Land explores how archaeology practiced within communities can restore history and strengthen relationships built on contested ground Ione Don Mark Lemon, 1905
