The Works of the British Poets Robert Anderson, 1795 Nature Stories for Young Readers Florence Bass, 1896 Touched by Nature Pip Waller, Lucy Wells, 2019 Inside these pages are woven together the voices and stories of many people whose lives have been touched by plants in general and plant spirit medicine in particular These include contributions from some of the many wonderful herbalists using plant based medicine in a way that goes beyond the physical biochemical model The stories are arranged in chapters that take the reader on a journey to discover this medicine of our time It is sometimes said that in the time of greatest need there is the greatest help and plant spirit medicine has certainly emerged at a time of great need and challenge and it is taking root and growing The plants themselves sentient and alive are calling to many to awaken to a deeper experience of the energy of nature and of our human place in it This can be felt and understood in direct relationship The elemental forces that manifest the seasons offer a doorway to move into this perspective For all the many reasons people may seek out the medicine there will always be something deep and interesting to learn from an experience of it once we have made the connection Anyone can learn to communicate directly with plant spirits and befriend them in a way that opens rich dimensions and over time and with persistence and patience a quiet revolution of perspective can result Becoming a healer however and practicing as one is a more committed business that requires dedication perseverance and sacrifice It also holds many rewards Plant spirit medicine offers the healer the framework of an elegant and rigorous methodology within which to access and effectively channel the energy of the astonishing realm of plant spirits In the unfolding of our own journeys as healers and receivers of the medicine we witness an unfolding of consciousness in ourselves and our patients that offers something truly hopeful for the journey of the planet

Why Should I Protect Nature? Abhas Bhardwaj, 2017-10-05 Do you know that as many as 30 to 50 per cent of all species will possibly vanish forever by the middle of this century Human activities have permanently changed the planet Carbon dioxide levels have risen at an alarming rate resulting in global warming and climate change We are progressively destroying the very environment that nurtures us Mother Nature is dying and it is up to us to save her Why Should I Protect Nature promotes love for nature and provides suggestions on how to conserve the natural wealth all around us It explains concepts like global warming and climate change in simple language and also teaches different ways in which you can prevent them

De Rerum Natura (The Nature of Things) Lucretius,2008-08-06 This elegant new translation at last restores the poetry to one of the greatest and most influential poems in the Western tradition De Rerum Natura is Lucretius's majestic elaboration of Greek Epicurean physics and psychology in an epic that unfolds over the course of six books This sumptuous account of a secular cosmos argues that the soul is mortal that pleasure is the object of life and that humanity has free will among other ideas Renowned author translator and poet David R Slavitt has captured Lucretius's elegance as well as his philosophical profundity in this highly readable translation of a poem that is crucial to the history of ancient thought

The Child's Book of Nature Worthington Hooker,1880 Nature's Greatest Success Robert N. Spengler,2025 The 15 000 year story of how grass seduced humanity into being its unwitting labor force and the science behind it Domesticated crops were not human creations and agriculture was not simply invented As Robert N Spengler shows domestication was the result of an evolutionary process in which people played a role only unwittingly and as actors in a numberless cast that spanned the plant and animal kingdoms Nature's Greatest Success is the first book to bring together recent scientific discoveries and fascinating ongoing research to provide a systematic account of not only how agriculture really developed but why Through fifteen chapters this book dives deep into the complex processes that drove domestication and the various roles that plants and animals including humans played in bringing about those changes At the intersection of popular history archaeology and evolutionary biology Nature's Greatest Success offers a revolutionary account of humanity not at the apex of nature but deeply embedded in the natural world and the evolutionary processes that continue to guide it even today

Moral Virtue and Nature Stephen R. Brown,2008-04-10 What makes someone a good human being Is there an objective answer to this question an answer that can be given in naturalistic terms For ages philosophers have attempted to develop some sort of naturalistic ethics Against ethical naturalism however notable philosophers have contended that such projects are impossible due to the existence of some sort of gap between facts and values Others have suggested that teleology upon which many forms of ethical naturalism depend is an outdated metaphysical concept This book argues that a good human being is one who has those traits the possession of which enables someone to achieve those ends natural to beings like us Thus the answer to the question of what makes a good human being is given in terms both objective and naturalistic The author shows that neither is ought gaps nor objections concerning teleology pose insurmountable problems for naturalistic virtue ethics This work is a much needed contribution to the ongoing debate about ethical theory and ethical virtue
