Burnt by the Sun Jon K. Chang, 2018-01-31 Burnt by the Sun examines the history of the first Korean diaspora in a Western society during the highly tense geopolitical atmosphere of the Soviet Union in the late 1930s Author Jon K Chang demonstrates that the Koreans of the Russian Far East were continually viewed as a problematic and maligned nationality ethnic community during the Tsarist and Soviet periods He argues that Tsarist influences and the various forms of Russian nationalism and worldviews blinded the Stalinist regime from seeing the Koreans as loyal Soviet citizens Instead these influences portrayed them as a colonizing element labor force with unknown and unknowable political loyalties One of the major findings of Chang's research was the depth that the Soviet state was able to influence penetrate and control the Koreans through not only state propaganda and media but also their selection and placement of Soviet Korean leaders informants and secret police within the populace From his interviews with relatives of former Korean OGPU NKVD the predecessor to the KGB officers he learned of Korean NKVD who helped deport their own community Given these facts one would think the Koreans should have been considered a loyal Soviet people But this was not the case mainly due to how the Russian empire and later the Soviet state linked political loyalty with race or ethnic community During his six years of fieldwork in Central Asia and Russia Chang interviewed approximately sixty elderly Koreans who lived in the Russian Far East prior to their deportation in 1937 This oral history along with digital technology allowed him to piece together Soviet Korean life as well as their experiences working with and living beside Siberian natives Chinese Russians and the Central Asian peoples Chang also discovered that some two thousand Soviet Koreans remained on North Sakhalin island after the Korean deportation was carried out working on Japanese Soviet joint ventures extracting coal gas petroleum timber and other resources This showed that Soviet socialism was not ideologically pure and was certainly swayed by Japanese capitalism and the monetary benefits of projects that paid the Stalinist regime hard currency for its resources

Korea's Twentieth-Century Odyssey Michael E. Robinson, 2007-04-30 For more than half of the twentieth century the Korean peninsula has been divided between two hostile and competitive nation states each claiming to be the sole legitimate expression of the Korean nation The division remains an unsolved problem dating to the beginnings of the Cold War and now projects the politics of that period into the twenty-first century Korea's Twentieth Century Odyssey is designed to provide readers with the historical essentials upon which to unravel the complex politics and contemporary crises that currently exist in the East Asian region Beginning with a description of late nineteenth century imperialism

Michael Robinson shows how traditional Korean political culture shaped the response of Koreans to multiple threats to their sovereignty after being opened to the world economy by Japan in the 1870s. He locates the origins of both modern nationalism and the economic and cultural modernization of Korea in the twenty years preceding the fall of the traditional state to Japanese colonialism in 1910. Robinson breaks new ground with his analysis of the colonial period, tracing the ideological division of contemporary Korea to the struggle of different actors to mobilize a national independence movement at the time. More importantly, he locates the reason for successful Japanese hegemony in policies that included and thus implicated Koreans within the colonial system. He concludes with a discussion of the political and economic evolution of South and North Korea after 1948 that accounts for the valid legitimacy claims of both nation states on the peninsula.

Nation-Building, Identity and Citizenship Education Joseph Zajda, Holger Daun, Lawrence J. Saha, 2008-12-16. A major aim of Nation Building, Identity and Citizenship Education: Cross cultural Perspectives is to present a global overview of selected scholarly research on global and comparative trends in dominant discourses of identity politics and nation building in comparative education research. It provides an easily accessible practical yet scholarly source of information about the international concern in the field of nation building, identity and citizenship education. Above all, the book offers the latest findings on discourses surrounding national identity, nation building and citizenship education in the global culture. It offers a timely overview of current issues affecting the formation of social identity and citizenship education in the global culture. More than ever before, there is a need to understand and analyse both the intended and the unintended effects of globalisation and the forces of globalisation on nations, organisations, communities, educational institutions and individuals around the world. This is particularly relevant to the evolving and constantly changing notions of nation states, national identity and citizenship education globally. Current global and comparative research demonstrates a rapidly changing world where citizens are experiencing a growing sense of alienation, uncertainty and loss of moral purpose. In this stimulating and important book, the authors focus on discourses surrounding three major dimensions affecting the national identity, nation building and citizenship education debate: education and society, ideology, democracy and human rights. These are among the most critical and significant dimensions defining and contextualising the processes surrounding the nation building and identity.
